LENINGRAD FACES 3-HEADED ONSLAUGHT

Fair Enough
by
WESTBROOK PEGLER

I have received a startling question from some member of the Spelvin family of Americans which I herewith pass on to the whole Spelvin tribe for discussion.

What, my correspondent asks, are we going to do with Adolf Hitler once we catch him, supposing we do?

Would we execute him?

Well, undoubtedly most of the world would regard his extinction as a blessing but, after all, the Americans would have to insist on some sort of trial and that would mean that we would have to create a court. The other nations which have suffered from Hitlerism would want a voice in this trial and the impossibility of obtaining an impartial judge and a jury without prejudice against the defendant reveals itself at once. The site of the trial raises an important question, too, because Poland, Norway and Holland, which have suffered most on the least provocation, all would bid for the right to give the party, and our British friends probably would like to hold it in some reminiscent ruin in London, possibly the house of commons where prejudice would pervade the proceedings in scandalous violation of the scrupulous British system of justice. Russia, of course, would be out of the question, for the Russian method is to condemn the accused before trial and then hold proceedings to validate the sentence which has been carried out beforehand.

No, assuming that Adolf Hitler is this country's prisoner, we have to go through the motions of a regular trial, and I leave the procedure in the realm of speculation to rush on to the question of the charge against the prisoner. What do we charge him with, anyway? Murder? But only the people he has murdered were Germans, and they were murdered according to law by a man who authorized himself to commit murder in the public interest. He would beat a murder rap in his own country, because the law there says these murders were not crimes. The hundreds of thousands, millions, all told, of other killings which will have marked the course of Hitler's war by

BLITZ DEFENSE FOR BLITZKRIEG IS SUCCESSFUL

Found To Be Capable Of Dealing Havoc To Enemy Tanks

By Norman Walker

CAMP POLK, La., Aug. 20.—(AP)—The army's antidote for modern blitz warfare got its first real test in Third army maneuvers and was found by officers to be highly capable of dealing havoc to enemy armored tank spearheads.

The new weapon is a destroyer force, or "D. F." as the army already has dubbed it, focusing devastating shell fire on enemy tanks before they can start a front line smash.

Three highly maneuverable motorized "D. F." groups have been ordered organized by the war department for the inter-army games in Louisiana next month, but the Third army's fifth corps commander, Major-General Edmund L. Daley unveiled a destroyer group for preliminary test.

Thirty-seven and 75 m.m. cannons, augmented by small infantry, engineer, air and armored scout car detachments, plus a signal unit, blasted enemy tanks converging for an intended power thrust.

Under this withering fire from close range, advancing tanks were ruled blown apart and their crews, groping

SABOTAGE BELIEF IN FIRE DROPPED

NEW YORK, Aug. 20.—(AP)—The possibility that sabotage might have caused the burning of a Brooklyn pier and the Cuba Mail line cargo ship Panuco was raised briefly today by the discovery of three bomb-like metal cylinders on the vessel's afterdeck but quickly disappeared when it was found that more than 100 similar objects were in a compartment aboard the vessel.

First reports said Fireboat Lieutenant Arthur Braconnier found "two time bombs" and that one of the two bomb squad showed that three exploded after discovery.

Subsequent investigation by the pocylinders, 15 inches long and 4 inches in diameter, were found on the ship's afterdeck.

After police had soaked the cylinders in oil, they opened one and found that it contained a substance resembling mercury.

Later, the investigators found more than 100 duplicate cylinders aboard the vessel and announced it was their belief they were either a part of the ship's cargo, or a normal adjunct to the vessel's operation.

The bomb scare came in the midst of an investigation by a special board from Washington into the cause of $1,500,000 fire that took at least five lives and resulted in injury to at least 72 persons.

CHIGGERS WORRY ARMY

WITH SECOND ARMY IN ARKANSAS, Aug. 20.—(AP)—It's not the enemy, it's the chiggers that are worrying the boys of the Second army fighting a mimic war in southwest Arkansas. Finger-nail polish was in demand. The soldiers were applying the beauty preparation to chigger bites, explaining it "smothers the critters."

CANADIAN PRIME MINISTER WILL SEE CHURCHILL

MacKenzie King Arrives In Britain By Transatlantic Plane

LIKES OCEAN FLIGHT

Will Not Discuss Plans Until After Program Is Worked Out

LONDON, Aug. 20.—(AP)—Canadian Prime Minister W. L. MacKenzie King arrived in Britain by transatlantic plane today to confer with Prime Minister Churchill and other British war leaders and to inspect Canadian armed forces in the British isles.

Making the ocean crossing with King aboard a giant four-motored Liberator bomber were Norman A. Robertson, undersecretary of state for external affairs; Brigadier-General George P. Vanier and three secretaries.

The prime minister—making his first flight and his first visit to England since the start of the war—planned to take an overnight train to London, where headquarters for his party have been prepared in a hotel.

(The question of whether King should visit London to discuss coordination of the empire's war effort has been the subject of debate in Canadian political circles for months. The debate was given impetus by the fact that Canada was not represented at the recent meeting between Churchill and President Roosevelt—which some Canadian circles apparently regarded as a slight.

(A statement of King's arrival in Britain, issued today in Ottawa, said he helped plan that meeting. His own trip to London, the statement said, had been scheduled some time ago, but was delayed until after the Churchill-Roosevelt conference.)

An official announcement disclosed that King, the first Canadian prime minister ever to fly the ocean, took off Tuesday, halting for two hours en route in Newfoundland. The crossing was made in fair weather, and King and his companions said they slept well during the night.

The prime minister, wearing a brown striped suit and a fedora hat and carrying a cane, was the first to step from the big plane after it taxied to a halt. He was smiling broadly. A guard of Scots fusiliers snapped to attention and bagpipers shrilled a welcome.

On hand at the airport "somewhere in Britain" to greet King were Vincent Massey, high commissioner for Canada in the United Kingdom, and Rear-

SLEEP SAVES 3 IN PLANE CRASH

Believed To Have Escaped Death Because Of Relaxed Positions

SAO PAULO, Brazil, Aug. 20.—(AP)—Because they were asleep and relaxed in rear seats, two North Americans and a steward escaped death in a Panair do Basil plane crash that killed eight and seriously injured two others, investigators said today.

Professor Philip C. Jessup of New York City, international law expert touring South America to promote study in that field; Hugh Davies, Harriesburg, Pa., businessman, and David Novak, the steward, made their way down from the mountainside, where the plane crashed, to a suburb of Sao Paulo yesterday. Jessup and Davies were the only North Americans aboard the plane.

The three, suffering minor injuries and shock, slept overnight at a hospital after telling of their futile attempts to extricate other passengers from the wreck.

Rescue squads worked through the night to remove the bodies of the dead in the plane and to care for the two injured, identified as Julio Carlos

MAN, 60, WANTS TO PART FROM GIRL, 16

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 20.—(AP)—Karl W. Thalhammer, 60-year-old photographic equipment manufacturer, has sued for annulment of his marriage to Esther Schliesser, 16.

The elderly bridegroom declared he wed the school girl at Yuma, Ariz., July 20 after her parents, John M. Schliesser, Hollywood taxidermist, and Mrs. Ruth Schliesser, had accused him falsely of an illicit affair with their daughter. He asked a divorce if an annulment is denied. He said they separated 11 days after the ceremony.

Mrs. Schliesser and her daughter told reporters they would file a cross complaint for a divorce and alimony. Mrs. Schliesser said she and her husband agreed to the marriage at the request of Thalhammer, a family friend.

She said the family had discussed filing a divorce suit "and then suddenly we are faced with these outrageous charges."

PRESIDENT SEES DIFFICULT ROAD BEFORE VICTORY

Quotes Abraham Lincoln In Saying People Must Face Facts

WASHINGTON, Aug. 20.—(AP)—President Roosevelt used words which Abraham Lincoln uttered at a dark moment in American history to emphasize to the nation today that he foresaw a long, hard road ahead before a final victory over the axis is won.

The chief executive spoke of the war continuing through 1943 if necessary, and made plain his belief that the people of the United States were not yet awake to the enormous proportions of the task confronting them.

Mr. Roosevelt chose to be indirect at his press conference yesterday in appraising the present and the immediate future, and for that reason he had the capital wondering how literally to accept the parallel which he drew between 1941 and Lincoln's day.

The Lincoln quotation which the president cited was in a passage from Carl Sandburg's monumental work "Abraham Lincoln—The War Years." It described an interview between Lincoln and a delegation of women, headed by a Mrs. Mary A. Livermore of Chicago.

The time was September, 1862. Only a few days before, the battle of Antietam had been fought—"The bloodiest single day of fighting of the war," in the opinion of Confederate General Longstreet. Behind lay a series of almost unbroken Union reverses, stretching from the first Bull Run to

R. A. F. DELIVERS STRANGE CARGO

LONDON, Aug. 20.—(AP)—The R. A. F. has delivered its strangest cargo of war to German-held northern France—a new leg for Wing Commander Douglas R. Bader.

Bader's entire squadron flew across the channel yesterday, it was disclosed today, to share the honor of dropping the metal leg by parachute near St. Omer, near where the legless ace is held prisoner after having been shot down nine days ago.

The Germans had sent word to the air ministry through the International Red Cross that the grinning, outspoken pilot was safe but that he had ruined one of his artificial legs when he hit the ground after bailing out of his flaming plane.

The London firm that made Bader's original pair had a spare in reserve.

Only a fortnight before he was shot down Bader was in the firm's fitting rooms explaining how he would try to save his legs if he ever had to use a parachute. He had planned to do it with a body roll he learned playing football.

Bader lost his legs in a civilian flying accident, and became an R. A. F. pilot despite his handicap.

MUDHOLE WAR MAKES NAZIS LIKE FATHERS

One Writes Soldiers Have Not Taken Boots Off For Weeks

BERLIN, Aug. 20.—(AP)—Fighting from mudholes on the eastern front gives German warriors of the new generation this much to boast of—now they can talk on even terms with their fathers, veterans of the trench warfare of the World war.

Corporal Hans Juergen Weidlich presented a mudhole view of the new war in an account he entitled "Days of Trench Warfare" just sent back to Berlin.

He told how he and his comrades dug themselves in on a hillside in an undesignated sector which the Russians, well hidden in a birch woods, kept under heavy machine-gun and artillery fire.

Weidlich said the situation on the hillside was similar to a scene from a Punch and Judy show except that a hand grenade or a bullet took the place of the usual frying pan hurled whenever a head popped up.

"Dense fog envelops our position next morning," Weidlich wrote. "Mist turns into rain; incessantly it falls upon us in thin stripes. With our tent cloths we build roofs over our holes, dump earth upon them, and

British Fliers Drink To Comrade Who Looked Like Doll, Fought Like Devil

By Drew Middleton

(EDITOR'S NOTE: As Associated Press correspondent with the British expeditionary force in France, Drew Middleton became acquainted with members of an R. A. F. fighter squadron stationed outside Lille. Here he describes a new meeting with the fliers—in honor of one of the squadron's fallen heroes.)

AN R. A. F. FIGHTER STATION IN ENGLAND, Aug. 20.—(AP)—We drank a toast last night to Dickie Lee, a clean-looking kid who looked like a doll and fought like a devil.

Lee was shot down over France a year ago yesterday and his squadron held a dinner in his honor.

The squadron leader told me when I arrived that dinner would be delayed a bit for his men had had a bit of a show during the afternoon and were late getting in.

We had a drink and waited in the mess. One by one the pilots came in. I knew a couple, but most of them were strangers.

"I expect you'll find some changes," the leader said. "We've had some bad luck. It was a long time ago and a long ways away * * *"

Well, yes and no. It is only a half-hour as a Spitfire flies to that other air field outside Lille. And October, 1939, isn't so far away.

When the old gang arrived you noticed immediately a lot of them weren't flying any more. They had lost that confident look of combat pilots. I asked one what he was doing.

"Instructor, worst luck," he said. "Got a bit of bullet in my back over Calais in May this year. Won't let me do operational work and I miss it like the very devil."

We sat down to dinner. It wasn't as it once was. Around the table were new faces in place of those boys who used to curse the weather in France and the "phoney war."

The squadron leader told of exploits by Lee, of the two Heinkels he shot down while flying home on leave, or how he was shot down twice and twice escaped from behind German lines, of how he won the D. F. C. for his work over Dunkerque and of how last August 19 members

BUS SYSTEM IN DETROIT TIED UP BY STRIKE

Street Cars Also Halted In Labor Jurisdictional Dispute

(By Associated Press)

Detroit's street car and bus system was tied up today by a strike, and a stalemate continued at a huge New Jersey shipyard where 17,000 C. I. O. men walked out two weeks ago.

The Detroit strike became effective at 4 a.m., climaxing a jurisdictional dispute between rival A. F. L. and C. I. O. unions. Some 400,000 factory and office workers in the motor city cast about hurriedly for emergency transportation to their jobs.

The Amalgamated Association of Street Electric Railway and Motor Coach Operators of America (A. F. L.) voted the strike last night, and Mayor Edward J. Jeffries quickly ordered the rival union, the State, County and Municipal Workers of America (C. I. O.), to make no attempt to operate the transit system. Police were held in reserve pending developments.

The mayor, who sought to arrange a conference with leaders of the striking union, said he was dumbfounded at the A. F. of L. unionists' action in walking out four hours after their midnight strike vote. Michigan labor law requires a five-day "cooling off period" after notice of intent of strike and a 30-day wait in disputes involving public utilities.

A survey of automobile factories important in defense work indicated many employes were from five minutes to an hour late arriving at their posts but in most cases production lines began on schedule without waiting for the stragglers.

An A. F. L. spokesman said his group demanded exclusive bargaining rights for car and bus men, exclusive rights to use terminal bulletin boards and an agreement with the city department of street railways that no other union would have Amalga-

HIGHWAY NAMED IN DEFENSE NET

No. 165 To Receive Federal Funds For Improvements To Alexandria

Federal highway No. 165, between Monroe and Alexandria, has been placed in the strategic military highway net and will be eligible for special improvement appropriations of the defense program, L. P. Milner, chairman of the Chamber of Commerce highway committee, announced Wednesday. Mr. Milner based his information on a dispatch from Major-General John P. Smith, Atlanta, Ga., commanding officer of the Fourth Corps area.

Actual allocation of funds for the highway will be made jointly by the administrator of the public roads administration and the Louisiana department of highways, the chairman stated. Designation of funds will be based upon a study now being made to determine the needs of the road for armed forces and also the requirements of civil traffic.

The 65 miles of unimproved blacktop road between Grayson and Alexandria, with the exception of eight miles, is either under contract or is programmed in 1941 for dirt and drainage structures, Mr. Milner stated.

The chamber's highway committee has made and will continue to make every possible effort to secure funds for the completion of the highway at the earliest possible date, the committee chairman asserted.

Little information is available as to the total amount of money Louisiana will receive in the special highway defense appropriation, Mr. Milner stated. The original bill passed by congress was vetoed by the president,

SIX SOLDIERS HELD FOR LEAVING POSTS

HARLAN, Ky., Aug. 20.—(AP)—Six soldiers who Jailer Ben Middleton said were absent without leave from various army posts for periods ranging up to a year were arrested by sheriff's deputies in this mountainous eastern Kentucky section yesterday.

The men were held in Harlan county jail pending the arrival of army officers expected tomorrow.

Middleton said the arrests were the first made here since Captain Dallas Keller of Company A, 149th Infantry—Harlan county unit of the Kentucky national guard—reported two weeks ago that 27 men from his company alone were missing from Camp Shelby, Miss., and asked Sheriff Herbert Cawood to assist in rounding them up. Cawood said Captain Keller listed his son, Dallas, Jr., among those absent.

K. OF C. ASKED TO AID RUSSIA

Justice Murphy Says Nazism Great Threat To Religious Freedom

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Aug. 20.—(AP)—The Knights of Columbus, militant enemy of Communism, had before it today a plea by Supreme Court Justice Frank Murphy that Catholics and other Christians join in aiding Russia during her war with Germany.

In a speech before the fraternity's 59th annual convention, Justice Murphy asserted Nazism constituted a greater menace to the church than did Communism, and that helping Russia at this time wouldn't mean embracing her political and economic doctrines.

Fifteen hundred delegates, representing 419,000 members of the Catholic order, cheered loudly last night when Justice Murphy said:

"We stand against Communism, but we should not permit this to blind us to our own interest and to the major fact that the great and immediate threat to our position and standing as a great nation is Nazi Germany with its inordinate ambitions, its hated philosophy and its superb military organization."

After weighing Communism and Nazism at length, the jurist said that

FULLY 10 DAYS OF EASY CREDIT LEFT

WASHINGTON, Aug. 20.—(AP)—The public, it was learned today, still has at least 10 days of easy instalment credit ahead of it.

The federal reserve board, which is formulating restrictions on time payments, was reported authoritatively to favor a September 1 effective date and to be considering an industry plea for postponing it until September 15.

The nature of these restrictions is expected to be made public tomorrow, but they are also believed by responsible officials to follow closely tentative rules made public last week.

The tentative regulations provided a minimum one-third cash down payment and maximum limit of 18 months to pay the balance on new and used automobiles, airplanes, boats, outboard motors and motorcycles; 20 per cent down and 18 months on refrigerators, washing machines, ironers, vacuum cleaners, electric dishwashers, air conditioning units, and radio sets; 15 per cent down and 18 months on oil burners, stokers and furnaces, water heaters, plumbing, and complete air conditioning systems; and 18 months credit limitations on cash loans under $1,000 and home renovation loans. All other items would be unaffected. Cash and regular charge account transactions also would be exempt from the initial rules.

Grand Assault On New Soviet Defense Line Apparently Near

REYKJAVIK, Iceland, Aug. 20.—(AP)—A single German plane today flew over Iceland's capital—occupied by United States and British troops—but dropped no bombs.

Masses of Russian tanks were reported by the Germans to be counter-attacking Nazi lines on the lower Dnieper river front late today, while elsewhere on the 1,200-mile battle line a Russian counter-offensive was said to have recaptured five Soviet villages.

The locale of the Red army's counter-offensive, reported by the official Soviet news agency Tass, was not disclosed except that it was in a "western direction"—possibly on the central front guarding Moscow.

The Germans said Red tanks in large formations were attacking Nazi troops storming up the Dnieper river in an attempt to cover the retreat of sizable Red forces eastward across the river.

SHERIFF WARNS PROSTITUTES

Two Women Are Arrested Here On Charges Of Prostitution

Sheriff Milton Coverdale issued a warning to prostitutes in this parish Wednesday morning, following the arrest of Johnnie Jackson and Bessie Richardson, local women. Operation of houses must stop, the sheriff declared, stressing his determination to enforce the law and to cooperate with the war department in the matter.

Charged on three counts of operating a house of prostitution, the Jackson woman was released on $900 bond shortly after her arrest Tuesday night, according to Coverdale. The other woman, charged with being a prostitute, was in jail Wednesday morning, her bond still not fixed, he said.

Approximately two months ago, Sheriff Coverdale and Police Chiefs B. L. Brantley and Jeff Caldwell initiated a clean-up drive on the districts over the parish by request of army officials. Every known house of prostitution was closed and its inmates ordered to leave.

The Breard street place was shut down completely, the sheriff stated, but immediately complaints were received concerning the renewed operation of the Jackson house at 1631 Breard street. Officers Tuesday obtained definite proof of its operation, he said, and arrested the proprietress and her employe.

Regardless of location, such houses must and will be closed and offenders will be prosecuted, Sheriff Coverdale declared.

ALLOCATIONS PASS $51,000,000,000

WASHINGTON, Aug. 20.—(AP)—Allocations and commitments for the defense program topped $51,000,000,000 today and a prospective second lend-lease request may raise the total to more than $55,000,000,000.

Congress has appropriated $37,260,260,222 since July 1, 1940, for the army, navy and other defense activities, in addition to the initial $7,000,000,000 lend-lease outlay and authorizations to spend $7,297,000,000, in addition to sums already appropriated, for completion of a two-ocean navy.

Girls And Boys Who Will Leave For College Next Month Become Increasingly Active

The arrival of August is always accompanied by feverish activity on the part of college students who realize that only one month remains in which to do all those pleasant things which they had planned for vacationtime and in which to prepare for another year away from home. For them summer is at its peak. A veritable whirlwind of parties and dances marks the last few weeks before they go off to school to recuperate from vacation activities.

Given in honor of the Methodist college students was the lawn party at the home of Mrs. Neal McHenry Monday evening. Guests gathered just before twilight, in the cool shade of massive trees. A rustic table, in keeping with the setting, was placed outside to hold refreshments. It was decorated with clusters of garden flowers, in bright summer colors, which surrounded a crystal bowl filled with punch. Mrs. McHenry presided at the table and was assisted by her daughter, Marguerite, in serving guests with sandwiches, cakes, mints, and assorted confections.

Large stone jars were heaped with vari-colored flowers and placed at various points on the lawn, adding to the beauty of the growing flowers and shrubs which surrounded the selected spot.

Conversation was spirited and lasted long after dusk had fallen, for everyone had one thing in common—college, and each was eager to either impart advice to those who were going away for the first time, or, on the other hand, to ask numerous questions of those who were experienced in the phases of college life.

Among the guests were: Miss Che Che Hinkle, Miss Mary Lavinia Inabnet, Miss Nan Drew, Miss Frances Baldwin, Miss Emale Gattis, Miss Martha Marshall, Miss Elaine Calloway, Miss Martha Clayton Kilpatrick, Miss Florence Fluker, Miss Jean Hale, Miss Patsy Slack, Miss Lodi Cann, Miss Sarah Ellen Gunby, Miss Martha McHenry, Miss Marguerite McHenry, Bernie Handy, A. B. Myatt, Clarence Martin, Dawson Garrett, Donald Garrett, and Armand McHenry, Jr.

An out-of-door party was that which celebrated Miss Eva Cooper's 16th birthday Monday night. Miss Cooper is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Tom Cooper of Swartz, La.

Games of various types were enjoyed on the brightly lighted lawn, after which the guests adjourned to the house for cake and punch.

Guests were: Miss Eloise Yeats, Miss Marcell Parnelle, Miss Louise Cooper, Miss Frances Cooper, Miss Estelle Garr, Miss Dorothy Cooper, Miss Thelma Adams, Bobby Dumas, Harold Parnelle, J. T. Parnelle, Bo Cagle, James Cooper, Ed Cagle, Billy Cagle, W. M. Beckley, Harold Hudson, and Theo Musick.

Mr. and Mrs. Ivey Faulk and daughter, Marcia, and Mrs. E. Thompson have returned from a vacation on the gulf coast, where they were guests at the Edgewater Beach hotel.

Mrs. L. C. Owens of Brevide, N. C., is the guest of her mother, Mrs. Pat Hamilton of West Monroe.

Mrs. C. E. Faulk and daughter, Eleanor, have returned from an extensive motor tour through the western states and Canada.

MUDHOLE WAR MAKES NAZIS LIKE FATHERS

thus are reasonably protected from the worst drenching.

"The rain falls monotonously. It beats on our roofs, tinkles on steel helmets, makes the ground gluey and sticks on our uniforms. To protect our carbines from moisture requires the greatest of effort.

"Stoically we squat in our holes and somehow wait for some beginning or end.

"Suddenly Jahn shouts from his hole. "It's fun, anyway! At last we can tell our fathers that we, like them, really lay in the mud.'

"The Bolsheviks meanwhile have resumed their furious fire. Anti-tank guns shoot, shrapnel bursts, grenades fly over our heads, whistling, howling and roaring through the rain."

Weidlich went on to report that his group was relieved toward evening and went to a nearby barn to rest, only to have another fierce Russian artillery attack in the early morning cut short their sleeping time and kill two of their comrades.

The men spent the rest of the day cleaning their uniforms and equipment, but kept their wet boots on.

"We preferred to dry them on our feet—another experience we can tell our fathers," Weidlich wrote. "And we, like our fathers, have not taken them off for weeks."

Weidlich ended his story by describing still another Soviet artillery and grenade attack.

"The grenades, bursting ever closer, send everyone seeking protection in ditches or lying flat," he wrote. "Stones, dirt and splinters flying around our heads killed two radio operators and wounded a sergeant."

the time of his capture which my correspondent envisions, will be casualties of war, and I believe it has been the custom in civilized times to waive personal responsibility for the slaughter of war when the head of the offending state is caught. There was bold talk of hanging the kaiser in the hot days of the other German frolic, but he was allowed to hole up in a quiet place in Holland and live out his allotted time in luxury. Some Americans who tried to snatch him were put through an outward form of mild discipline for this breach of international decorum and the gist of the matter seemed to be that any personal punishment of the old man might be a dangerous precedent to be invoked later against the heads of other nations.

If we execute him, though, having arrived at that decision by some process which we have persuaded ourselves to regard as fair and impartial, how do we do it? Surely, in this case, popular opinion, not only here but in most of Europe, will hold that death should be neither quick nor painless, but, on the other hand, if we permit our nation formally to take part in an execution by torture, then there goes our pretense of a fine, intellectual civilization. Justice is supposed not to act in anger and, as the Germans themselves have found in their own case, such conduct by a government tends to degrade its people. The decent Germans were shamed and the rest were bestialized by the pogrom which followed the assassination in Paris of a third-rate diplomat in their service, and we know too much about the way excitable low-grade people are affected by impromptu butcheries and burnings with the tacit consent or connivance of the sheriff.

So the method is something else that is referred to the tribe of Spelvins for consideration while the discussion passes on to the possibility that having caught Hitler we then decide to put him in a cage, and keep him until he died a natural death, because we figure that no one man could atone, even by death by whatever means, for Hitler's mountainous score of horrors. Where would we put him? Key West in summer would be pretty bad, and Washington, D. C., is hardly preferable, and for winter I could recommend Chicago, but who guards him and why take a chance on a jail break, and the same old thing over again with Hitler squalling that the German people must rise and avenge another humiliation, this time even more so?

I pass it up, but if anyone wants to know what to do with Mussolini, I don't have to hesitate. Mussolini isn't dangerous. He is just a bombastic bum, and nothing could hurt him worse or better atone for his crimes than to bring him over here and let some little squirt slap his face in public at high noon every day for the rest of his life. That would slay the bum.

GENERALS FORGET TO STAY BEHIND LINES

CAMP POLK, La., Aug. 20.—(AP)—The army's generals have forgotten they're supposed to remain safely behind the lines. At least they get well in the middle of things in maneuvers.

Rough-riding Major-General George S. Patton narrowly evaded Third army realistic war games.

His close calls came on the heels of the capture of Lieutenant-General Walter Krueger who, though a non-combatant as general of the entire Third army, was caught in a cavalry trap with 1,000 "enemy" troops and released only after an argument.

Enterprising General Patton managed to turn his first imminent capture to brilliant advantage. Suddenly noticing his parked tank becoming enclosed by enemy infantrymen, Patton jumped into the machine and managed to take two companies of foot soldiers prisoners.

Employes of some firms in Liverpool, England, who report for work without their gas masks, are being docked in pay.

GILBERT'S CONDITION REMAINS UNCHANGED

Suffering from critical gunshot wounds allegedly received in an altercation with his son, Oliver Gilbert, about 50, of near Marion, was reported in an unchanged condition Wednesday morning by attendants at St. Francis sanitarium here. Gilbert was shot in his right hip Tuesday afternoon.

Edmund Gilbert, son of the wounded man, was released under a $750 bond, Sheriff J. B. Hester of Union parish said.

Attending physicians said X-rays revealed the hip bone was shattered by a full load of squirrel shot which made a three-inch-wide hole. Physicians said the elder Gilbert suffered from loss of blood.

The sheriff said a charge of shooting with intent to kill was brought against the younger Gilbert who placed himself in the hands of Union parish authorities.

A family quarrel is said to have led to the shooting, Sheriff Hester said.

The shooting occurred when Gilbert entered the house of his son who lives 300 yards from his father's home, Sheriff Hester said, adding that young Gilbert's wife and mother were eyewitnesses. Gilbert and his son are caretakers for a peach orchard owned by the Union saw mill.

in heavy smokescreens, annihilated in 50-caliber machine gun barrages.

Top ranking general staff officers, including Lieutenant-General Lesley McNair, army chief of staff, and foreign observers saw the first full dress showing of "D. F." in action resulting in hypothetical destruction of nearly half the "enemy's" tank strength.

"This is a blitz defense for the blitzkrieg," was the way Lieutenant-General Walter Krueger, commanding the Third army, described the new integrated anti-tank group.

General Krueger yesterday called a halt to the initial Third army maneuver problem after the "Blue" forces battled through enemy lines over a 35-mile battle front and virtually routed the "Red" forces. A critique will be held on the first phase Thursday and commanders will be given free rein in the second problem starting Sunday.

RUSSIA, FINLAND STILL QUIBBLING

ANKARA, Turkey, Aug. 19.—(Delayed)—(AP)—After almost two months of war, Soviet Russia and Finland still are quibbling over exchange of diplomatic representatives and only today 11 women of a Finnish group confined in railroad cars north of the Russian-Turkish border were released.

Still held by the Russians are 20 Finns, including the minister to Moscow.

About 160 members of the Russian delegation to Finland are being held in Yugoslavia.

Finnish sources here said the trouble arose because the Russians demanded release of 20 non-diplomatic nationals held in Finland for various offenses. The Finns were reported to have countered with a demand for the release of 20 Finnish doctors, technicians and farmers who have been in Soviet territory since the close of the 1939-40 Russian-Finnish war.

FISHING RODEO UNDAUNTED BY HEAVY SQUALL

Youth Missing From Speed Boat Later Found Safe On Yacht

FORT GAINES, DAUPHIN ISLAND, Ala., Aug. 20.—(AP)—Undaunted by a heavy squall that damaged several boats and resulted in one youth being missing overnight, the Alabama deep sea fishing rodeo fleet left anchor today.

Walter Bolton, 17, son of the Mobile county commission chairman, disappeared from a speed boat during the storm last night, but was later found safe on a nearby yacht where he had taken refuge.

Chief Boatswain's Mate D. Willis of the coast guard estimated the wind ranged between 35 and 40 miles per hour.

The yacht Mary was caught at the pier and part of her rails and gunwales were orn away by the pounding tides.

The Banshee, a sloop owned by Bill Reed, of Biloxi, Miss., also owner of the Mary, snapped her anchor line and crashed a hole in her bow on shore rocks. The mast of the three-month-old $3,600 sailing boat was shattered also.

Alex Hancock, veteran Mobile contractor, leaped from the wharf into the boiling surf, along with coast guardsmen, and overtook his cabin cruiser, the King Mirth, which was dragging its anchor in the high winds, and got its engines under way only a few feet away from the jagged rocks that line the Dauphins.

Ben Morgan, chief of game and fish in the state conservation department, was knocked overboard by the bounding waters. He was rescued without injury. A coast guard tender broke away and was damaged. Jack Walsh, of Mobile, suffered a badly bruised hand in handling his craft.

Half a dozen or so skiffs and other small boats were torn away from towing craft and swamped.

Most of the fleet of upwards of 50 craft, however, was off at the crack of dawn for the last of this three-day rodeo, a sea-going frolic that attracted more than 500 from a dozen or so states.

COTTON PENALTY RATE INCREASES

Four Cents Higher, While New Loon Rate Five Cents Higher

Cotton producers of Ouachita parish have been notified by I. E. Lucas, parish AAA administrative officer, that the United States department of agriculture has set the excess marketing penalty for the 1941 cotton crop at seven cents a pound, 50 per cent of the basic loan rate of 14.02 cents per pound on seven-eighths inchs middling cotton. The 1940 penalty rate was three cents a pound.

While the new penalty rate is four cents higher than that on the 1940 crop, the new loan rate is more than five cents above that of last year, which was 8.90 cents per pound, Mr. Lucas pointed out.

Establishment of the penalty rate was provided for by congress in an amendment to the agricultural adjustment act of 1938. This legislation set a basic loan rate for farmers cooperating with the AAA program for the 1941 crop at 85 per cent of cotton parity prices as of August 1. At the same time it provided that the penalty on marketing excess cotton be placed at 50 per cent of the basic loan rate.

The parity price of cotton on August 1 was 16.49 cents a pound, which made the basic loan rate for seven-eighths inch middling cotton 14.02 cents. Thus, the penalty rate was set at half this figure, or seven cents a pound. This will be a flat rate applicable to the marketing of all 1941 excess cotton regardless of grade or staple.

THINKS MILLINERS CUTTING THROATS

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 20.—(AP)—Perc Westmore says the milliners of America are cutting their own throats. And he proposes to help them.

Westmore's a movie makeup man. It seems the milliners slighted Perc and associates in designing their fall fashions. Perc took a peep, then a long look, then exploded:

"The hats do not necessitate a woman's having a hairdress. In fact, she needn't have any hair at all in most instances.

"The hats are a direct assault upon the beauty parlor industry—the very industry that leaped willingly to cooperation in hat sales promotion."

Westmore continued in the same vein for a few hundred more words—without repeating himself—and then wound up:

"I don't believe that any of the hats shown will make an appearance in motion pictures."

FIRST COTTON BALES IN PARISH REPORTED

The first two bales of cotton ginned in Ouachita parish this year were reported Wednesday morning.

On display in the Central Savings bank lobby is a bale grown by George Knight of Ward 4 near Fondale.

The other bale, grown by O. Matthews on the Robert Breard plantation, is on display in the lobby of the Ouachita National bank. This bale will be auctioned off Monday. It was ginned by the Standard Gin Company.

ONE LETTER STIRS A CONQUERED CONTINENT

What started out as just a clever little propaganda stunt has rolled into something mighty important for the British. The conquered people of continental Europe, the British themselves, and even some Germans and Italians, are rallying behind the symbol V, standing for victory in most European languages. Some of the many ways in which the letter is being flaunted before the Germans are illustrated above. British planes attacking the continent dip low over occupied nations, bring cheers flying in V formation. Girls wear dresses and jumpers cut with V necks and type in cadence of three dots and a dash, the Morse code for V. People everywhere form Vs with two fingers. The "V for victory" card is being distributed in America by Bundles for Britain.

ICKES RAPS AT BIG UTILITIES

Blames Them For Growth Of Government Power Operations

SPOKANE, Wash., Aug. 20.—(AP)—Harold L. Ickes is convinced that private utilities alone are to blame for the growth of government-sponsored power operations which he is determined shall be expanded to the very limit.

"There would be no public power versus private power issue in this country today if the private utilities had been satisfied with a reasonable profit, if they had not engaged in corrupting our political life," the secretary of interior declared last night.

"If you check up on those who are trying to make the people believe the federal government has been taking advantage of you by spending hundreds of millions of dollars out here in order to make you economically free, you will probably discover a private utility man, or a little brother of a private utility man."

Addressing a mass meeting in this public-power-conscious section of the northwest, Ickes took occasion also to proclaim his belief that industrial leaders worked in league to achieve their own advantages without regard for public economy.

"Remember that every monopoly you scratch is a brother under the skin to every other monopoly," he said. "They willingly give each other help when an assault is to be made upon the 'gravy train.'

"All of us * * * want a stable industrialization. We don't want any monopoly, 'beneficent' or otherwise, to have the power of economic life or death here or anywhere else. We want healthy industrious rivals."

Thus did the secretary explain his department's refusal to grant the Aluminum Company of America an additional 60,000-kilowatt block of power from Bonneville dam to augment the 162,500 kilowatts it had previously been allotted by that government project. The power instead was assigned to the Reynold Metals company to operate a competing plant.

OSBORN UNDERTAKES ARMY MORALE JOB

WASHINGTON, Aug. 20.—(AP)—A 6-foot-8 civilian, who was made a brigadier-general literally overnight, tackled the job today of running the army's important morale branch but carefully avoided taking sides in a controversy as to whether the soldiers' morale is good or bad.

He is Frederick H. Osborn, 52-year-old New York banker, whose appointment as brigadier-general was sent to the senate yesterday by President Roosevelt.

Despite his lack of military training, the new morale chief has had close contact with American soldiers in both war and peace.

As to his immediate plans as successor to Brigadier-General James A. Ulio, Osborn said nothing new or radical was contemplated. He said the morale branch of the army had been at work for months on a variety of plans for recreational and athletic programs.

"I think these plans are very good and my job will be to see that they are carried out," he added.

A coal field at Keokee, Va., abandoned for 19 years, has been reopened.

1,300 WORK ON WPA DEFENSE AIR PROJECTS

Jobs Under Way Have Estimated Completion Value Of $2,100,000

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 20.—(AP)—The WPA defense airport program in Louisiana, at the end of July, employed 1,300 men on five sites certified as having military importance, James H. Crutcher, state administrator, said today.

A summary of the program showed projects with an estimated completed value of nearly $2,100,000 were under way July 31. These figures excluded a number of projects completed within the last fiscal year.

Construction of the national guard observation squadron base in New Orleans is approximately 55 per cent complete and a crew of 200 men is employed.

In Baton Rouge more than 450 WPA workers are constructing a municipal airport which is 65 per cent complete. The tract on which the airport is being constructed covers 800 acres and was heavily wooded.

The municipal airport at Shreveport is about 65 per cent complete and is employing a crew of 430 men.

The airport at Camp Beauregard near Alexandria has been under construction by WPA for the last two years under several superseding projects. WPA workers already have constructed one runway and have installed sub-surface drainage. Two projects now in progress are about 95 per cent complete and include the construction of two additional gravel and clay runways, a 100 by 120-foot hangar, administration and squadron building; sidewalks, drives and general beautification.

Just completed by WPA was the rehabilitation of the old Weddell-Williams airport at Patterson where the late Jimmy Weddell, noted Louisiana flier, made his famous racing planes.

BANK CLOSED BY PESSIMIST

Calls It For Duration Of 'Roosevelt-Concocted Emergency'

CHICAGO, Aug. 20.—(AP)—John M. (100 Per Cent) Nichols who threatened for years to close his bank, the First National of Englewood, did it today.

In a letter headed, "Statement of condition at close of business August 20, 1941," Nichols wrote:

"Confronted as we are today with the spectacle of a nation betrayed by its own public officers, a people divided as never before, not even in Civil war days, and on all sides a resorting to the first law of self-preservation, I do not care to continue as the custodian of other people's money. * * *

"We have therefore returned all but $39,000 of a one-time high deposit of over $7,000,000 and we urge the immediate withdrawal of the small balance to enable us to close our books on 52 years of successful banking, at least for the duration of the Roosevelt-concocted emergency."

Nichols has said repeatedly that unless he could invest his depositors' money safely he would close up. "Any one can get into the banking business," he commented. "The trick is to get out."

Nichols' economic philosophy hasn't changed much since he burst into national prominence in the early '30s with a "one-man war" against the New Deal's banking policies, particularly the federal deposit insurance corporation.

Nichols admits he is a pessimist.

His father helped build the First National of Englewood. Following in his footsteps, the son eventually acquired 1,220 of the bank's 2,000 shares of stock.

Nichols and a few of his banking associates plan to keep busy managing the bank's real estate trusts and their own property.

The previous statement, issued by Nichols' bank at the close of business April 4, showed liquid assets totaled $748,230.83 more than the $4,373,467.50 in deposits, thus upholding Nichols' nickname of "100 Per Cent." Stock in the federal reserve bank was written down in the statement from $24,000 to 10 cents. Under the heading of "non-liquid assets," the statement set forth that the bank was a member of the FDIC. The value of this asset was listed at zero.

Nichols said he hoped to keep the bank building and his banking charter so that he could reenter the banking business "when, as and if financial and political conditions warrant it."

MANEUVER DEATHS RAISED TO NINE

CAMP POLK, La., Aug. 20.—(AP)—Deaths of two soldiers in a "jeep" accident and one from an electric shock raised the death list in the third army maneuvers to nine.

The late accidental fatalities were Private Kenneth J. Walthrop, Olney, Tex., and Private M. J. Metcalf, Paducah, Tex., in a jeep accident near Many, La., and Corporal Gordon M. Layton, Indianapolis, Ind., electrocuted when he contacted a power line through the communications system near Reeves.

Japanese In Hawaii

Among the other problems faced by the United States is that of the Hawaiian-born Japanese, who automatically become citizens at birth. There are about 120,000 of these citizens in the islands, constituting a fairly large percentage of the population. The problem of their loyalty daily grows more acute, for Japan looks upon these people as her subject. Tokyo has always maintained that any person of Japanese descent is still a Japanese, no matter where he was born or where he chooses to live.

It is now understood that some of these Japanese-Americans wish to end the awkward situation by having the United States formally dissolve the allegiance to Japan by means of a law. But it is to be doubted that any legal declaration will meet the situation, for the Japanese in Hawaii have not shown themselves to be solidly in accord with the American way. They may live in Hawaii and reap all the benefits of American citizenship, but when they choose to visit it is to Japan they go, not to the United States. They still look to Tokyo for guidance, not to Washington.

An investigation into the activities of the Japanese in Hawaii reveals some of the facets of this troublesome situation. Virtually all the Japanese have been formed into organizations to perpetuate the Japanese language, customs and religion. Money has been collected steadily from them to aid the Japs in their attempted domination of the east. Clothing, foodstuffs and other materials have been shipped over to Nippon to aid the cause. When the government clamped down on this racket, smuggling was attempted, and when this, too, was circumvented, the Hawaiian-born Japs found other ways to keep this money flowing.

These are not activities of a people who love their country, no matter how much they may profess to cherish American ideals. There is only one way in which they may prove their loyalty, and that is to renounce their allegiance to Japan by maintaining American principles in every manner. If these hyphenated Americans desire to be the kind of citizens they say they want to be, it should be easy for them to break off ties with a country from which their forefathers came.

Manhattan

NEW YORK—"Do you know," said Jesse L. Lasky, staring at the toes of his brown and white sport shoes without seeing them, "do you know, I was in New York when Mark Twain died. I was passing the church where the services were held. There must have been hundreds of people in the street, but it didn't mean a thing. That's too bad."

What Mr. Lasky meant was that it was too bad he hadn't studied that crowd and that scene and photographed it in his mind, so that he would remember it always. He could use that scene as it actually was, now. You see, Mr. Lasky is a film producer, and his next picture is going to be "The Adventures of Mark Twain." That's all he can talk about, or think about, and when he stares at the toes of his white and brown sport shoes, as I told you just now, all he sees is the face of the man who became a duellist, a soldier, a river pilot, a traveler, a wit, a lecturer, a debunker and a great, a very great, American.

If he reaches into his pockets for a cigar or a match a sheaf of notes on Twain's life comes tumbling out. He and his aides have spent months digging into the lesser known experiences of Samuel L. Clemens.

"Look here," he said, "look at this letter Mark Twain wrote to W. D. Howells, back in 1900. . . . What a prophet he was. . . . He was talking about England, and the Boer war, but it could apply equally as well today. . . . " He handed me a copy of the letter that he, Lasky, had uncovered in some old Mark Twain files. . . .

"Every day I write (in my head)," wrote Mark Twain, "bitter magazine articles about it, but I have to stop with that. For England must not fall; it would mean an inundation of Russian and German political degradations which would envelop the globe and steep it in a sort of middle-age night and slavery, which would last till Christ comes again. Even wrong—and she is wrong—England must be upheld. He is an enemy of the human race who shall speak against her now!"

When you talk of Mark Twain with Lasky you talk with a man whose enthusiasm for his subject rivals that of a sourdough glimpsing his first lode. . . . "In a few days I'm going out to Hannibal, Missouri, where Mark Twain lived, and I'm going to float down the Mississippi and try to recapture some of the scenes he saw every day. . . . I want to hear those voices taking soundings on the river, calling "Mark one . . . mark twain . . ."

"Do you know," exlaimed the man who just got through bringing the life of another great American—that of Sergeant York—to the screen, "do you know, Mark Twain lived 75 years. . . . He came into the world with Halley's Comet, and he went out when Halley's Comet came again. . . . Do you know, his wife never called him anything but Youth . . . That's the only name she ever addressed him by—Youth. For a short time Mark Twain was in the Confederate army. . . . He was a great guy, a great personality."

We told Mr. Lasky that undoubtedly he had something there. We also suggested Spencer Tracy for the title role . . . when he gets around to the actual casting. . . . Somehow, Tracy fits Mark Twain like Clark Gable fitted Rhett Butler. . . . It's one of those things. . . . At least, that's how we feel about it. We have a hunch Spencer Tracy sort of feels that way too.

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 20.—Does George (every gal's heart-throb) Montgomery know his attentions to Ginger Rogers are making Greer Garson unhappy? . . . If Marlene Dietrich really did sock away 50 dozen pairs of silk stockings, why not—her legs are a business asset. . . . Those gorgeous new furs adorning Betty Grable are a token of George Raft's love.

Local talk is that Mrs. Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt will name two girls in her coming divorce suit—one a well known actress. . . . I like Time magazine's description of Ann Sothern: "Part Jean Harlow, part Mae West." . . . Miss Sothern, by the way, reported ill with a cold, has been in a hospital with exhausted nerves.

Short True Story: It happened a few weeks ago. Harry Langdon, once an ace comedy star but now fighting for a comeback as both writer and actor, was offered a job concocting gags for an independent picture at $100 a day. Estimating the job would last no more than three days, Harry was about to turn it down but was swayed by the frantic protests of his brother, an amateur astrologer. After studying the heavens, the brother assured Langdon that it was the wrong time of the moon to turn down anything. Reluctantly, Langdon took the job. Once started, he noticed an excellent possibility of writing in a role for himself. He did, sold the producer the idea—and collected an additional $1,000 a week while doing it!

Our Children

By ANGELO PATRI

IF HE WON'T EAT DON'T FORCE HIM

"He won't eat for me," is a purely American complaint. No other mother in the world makes that complaint. The answer is plain, of course. He won't eat because he is not hungry and needs no food.

So many mothers seem not to understand that simple fact. Ailing children should not eat until the physician examines them and prescribes treatment and diet and children who are not hungry should not eat because they do not need food. American children are oftener overfed than not.

I happen to live in a district where there are many little children and it is not uncommon for me to see a sturdy child, bursting with health, pushed against the wall, a spoon thrust into his mouth and his mother shouting, "Eat, it's good for you. Eat." He turns his head mutinously this way and that and pushes the spoon from him every chance he gets. His mother appeals to high heaven, "He won't eat for me."

Why should he eat for anybody? Eating is a personal matter. The child eats for himself, nobody else, and the sooner he learns that the better off he will be and the more content his mother. Hunger is the cause and the best sauce for appetite. A hungry child will eat with good appetite what is given him and the answer to most of the troubled mothers whose children refuse food is: Let the child alone until he is hungry.

All children should be fed on schedule time. Little children need to eat little and often, so that five meals a day are better for them than three big ones. But let the mealtime be regular enough to set the rhythm of hunger in the child's body. Stick to the schedule as closely as possible. I don't believe in railroad time for meals, but a schedule close to that in regularity will serve best. The child who refuses food at the set meal time is not to be fed until the next one comes around just as he could not get on a train until it arrived at the station. Let him wait.

That is what most mothers cannot do. "You don't like your cereal? Maybe you'd like an egg? No? Then mother will make you some milk toast? No? It's nice? With sugar? No? Drink some nice milk. No? I'll put chocolate in it, and a nice straw. See, you can drink it out of this nice glass with the cow on it? Drink, like a good boy for mother."

That invites food fussing. Wise mothers do not make that kind of mistake. They set the table, on time, place the food, make the occasion pleasant and impersonal. Impersonal is the important idea here. The child eats for himself, for nobody else. If he refuses the food excuse him from the table pleasantly, remove it, and give him nothing until the next meal time. You set a habit of hunger in the child's body and that will attend to his food needs far bettef than you could do.

If after this routined treatment a child consistently refuses food, and you are certain he has not been given anything between times, call the child's physician. But be most careful, most certain, that you have not set up an emotional background at mealtime for that is something the physician cannot remove in a visit. That will require reconditioning, a long careful job. Begin right, hold to the order, and the child will eat.

Many children behave badly because they are not properly fed. Be sure that your own little boy or girl forms correct eating habits. Send for Angelo Patri's booklet "Eating," enclosing ten cents in coin. Address Angelo Patri, care the Monroe News-Star, Postoffice Box 75, Station O, New York, N. Y.

Washington Daybook

By Jack Stinnett

WASHINGTON—United States business men finally have decided that we are in a national emergency—and that business-as-usual is as dead as last week's ticker tape.

I got it straight from the Washington lawyers.

The Washington lawyers are in a class by themselves. Their business thrives in direct proportion to government activity in private industry. When sailing is comparatively smooth in the marts of trade, most Washington lawyers are as idle as a fisherman who forgot to bring along the worms. But when the laws of the land start dumping apples out of the industrial cart here and there, capital legal lights have to weight their coattails.

That's why seven or eight months ago, when national defense began to boom; when the army and navy were splitting whereases in thousands of contracts; when there came the first rumble of priority talk—Washington lawyers peeled off their coats, rolled up their sleeves, and got ready for the avalanche of business they felt certain would strike within a few days or weeks at most.

Then what happened? Nothing. The legal business jogged along at its even pace.

Couldn't Understand It

"We couldn't understand it," one of the legal fraternity explained to me. "And as the weeks became months and nothing happened, it grew all the more puzzling. Why, my business for the first six months of this year actually fell under the period a year ago.

"Here, industry was being pulled up by the roots and transplanted in new soil—and yet it seemed to be going through this cataclysm without a lawyer—without even a representative in Washington."

But that was a month or six weeks ago. Now, all is changed. The avalanche arrived with Washington's mid-summer heat and the Washington lawyers have dropped their fishing poles and niblicks and come back to work.

It is thumbing through the first few truckloads of cases that their clients have dumped in their laps that has brought the conclusion that the cause of the delay was simply that the United States business men hadn't waked up. They thought they could expand without causing dislocations. They thought they could deal with priorities without disrupting business-as-usual. Now, say the lawyers, they are finding out.

A few of these cases—engendered mostly by priorities—are interesting and throw some light on the situation.

There was the case of the western contractor who got his biggest private contract in years. It required thousands of feet of lumber. He went to Seattle personally to place his order. Sure, the lumber company officials told him, they would be glad to have the order. They would guarantee delivery in 490 days . . . in 1943! His lawyer's problem? To get a waiver of priorities so the contractor can have his order slipped into the batch that are purely defense.

Wants None Of It

There was the small Pittsburgh steel firm which for years had been supplying steady customers with about 3,000 tons of processed steel. The big company from which it got the unfinished steel assured it that it could continue to have 3,000 tons a year. Then the little processing company got a defense contract—10,000 tons a year—and a priority order for that 10,000 tons. The small company went back to the big company. Okay, its men were told, you'll get 10,000 tons—but we can't let you have the 3,000 additional. The government wouldn't like it.

So this firm actually has hired a lawyer to get it out of a defense contract which would quadruple its business. It would rather hold the customers it has had through the years.

These aren't isolated cases. They are just a couple of the thousands of shocks that are waking industry up to what defense really means—and skyrocketing the capital law business.

FORMULAS LISTED FOR COTTON PESTS

A great deal of damage to cotton crops in this area is resulting from the boll worm siege, according to D. L. Bornman, Jr., parish agricultural agent.

The agent listed some of the formulas that were recommended at the recent farm short course as substitutes for calcium arsenate in the control of cotton leaf worm. For leaf worm, he suggested one pound of Paris green, one pound of flour and five pounds of lime, to be applied at the rate of 14 pounds per acre. For both boll weevil and leaf worm, Mr. Bornman recommended a mixture of 33 pounds lead arsenate, seven pounds Paris green and 60 pounds lime, to be applied at the rate of 12 pounds per acre. Arsenate of lead should be used at the rate of 10 pounds per acre, he said.

If it is possible to obtain calcium arsenate, the agent stated, these formulas should not be used.

Rev. W. A. Borum, pastor of the First Baptist church of Natchez, Miss. for eight years, has accepted a call to become pastor of the Baptist church in Rayville. For the past three months this church has been without a pastor, since Dr. N. W. P. Bacon, former pastor, died in a hospital in Memphis, Tenn.

The firemen of the central station, who yesterday were rejoicing in the possession of a coon, today are still rejoicing. They have a possum and seven small possums. It is planned to donate these to the zoo at the park. The possum family was captured in Mississippi by Captain Tom Dupree.

The George E. Breece Lumber company, through the local manager, George Breece, Jr., announced today that inside of the next 30 days the company is to let the contract for a two-unit hardwood flooring mill to be constructed immediately. It will entail an investment of approximately $200,000. Additional barge and steamer equipment is also planned which will add $75,000 to the company's barge line expenditures here.

A number of business firms have already indicated their intention of entering floats in the Labor Day parade, September 6. Plans for the entertainment of the crowds that are expected to go to Edgewater Gardens for the barbecue, the speaking and other attractions, are being formulated. It is proposed to have "greased pig" contests, sack races and other old time sports.

MADE UP TO KILL

by Kelley Roos

Chapter 19

Man With A Key

"WHAT did I do, pal?" Jeff asked.

"You was up here Sunday night gettin' into the apartment," said Jinx.

"He was not," I said crossly. "We told you last night you were wrong about that."

"It ain't him bein' here that makes him a suspicious character; denyin' it is what does it."

"But I wasn't here Sunday night, Jinx."

"Nobody was here," I said.

"Are you serious? If you are serious, you are wrong. Someone came in here Sunday night, I seen him. I thought it was Mr. Troy. That's why I been withholdin' evidence from the police. I don't wanna double-cross Mr. Troy."

"He's talking nonsense," I said to Jeff. "There wasn't anyone here. Why, that was the night we were going to the Scriveners' party, remember? And you called me at the theater and said you couldn't make it. I came home with Carol right after the play. And we both went straight to bed, didn't we, Carol?"

She nodded, her eyes on Jinx.

He said: "Well, there was a man here. I know a man when I see one; I wasn't born yesterday. It was just before you two got home, a little after twelve, I guess. I stopped at this floor to put a new bulb in one of the hall lights and this here man was at your door. He had a key, too. I thought sure it was Mr. Troy and I couldn't figure out why he walked up instead of ridin' with me."

"It was probably someone at the wrong door."

"No, ma'am. It wasn't the wrong door. Because he unlocked it and went in. And closed the door behind him."

Carol said impatiently, "You must be wrong, Jinx. There was no one here when we came in."

"Then he musta gone out again." Jinx was stubborn.

"Are you sure, Jinx?"

"Sure I'm sure."

"Then why didn't you do something about him?" I demanded. "What do you mean by letting strange men run in and out of my apartment?"

"I told you I thought it was Mr. Troy."

I looked at Jeff. "Do you think we had a burglar? He couldn't have been a very good one. Nothing's missing that I know of."

Jinx said, "You sure was lucky!"

"After this, Jinx," I warned him, "you beat any man who tries to get in here to a pulp."

"Okay, Miss Rogers. G'night." He started for the door. Jeff stopped him.

"Wait a minute, Jinx. What did this guy at the door look like?"

"Like you. Sorta tall. Sorta thin. You know?"

"What was he wearing?"

"Regular clothes, Hat and coat."

"What color hat and coat?"

"Well, sorta darkish. I couldn't see good. On account of one of the hall lights bein' out. And I only seen him a second. But I think it was darkish . . . sorta, anyway."

"Listen, Jinx, would you know this fellow if you saw him again?"

Jinx considered. "If it wasn't you . . . naw, I don't think so. The light was . . ."

Lost Key

"OKAY, Jinx, thanks." Jeff turned to us as Jinx closed the door behind him. "Haila, I want you to think back. Did anyone at the theater know that you were going to the Scriveners' party?"

"Why . . . why, anyone could have known, I guess. I talked a lot about it."

"Did anyone know that Carol wasn't going, that she was coming back here after the performance?"

"Yes, I suppose so. I kept coaxing her to go all evening. I made something of a fuss about it and Carol kept refusing."

"And then, try to remember this, Haila, did you tell anyone that you . . . yourself . . . weren't going after all?"

"I . . . no. No, I'm sure I didn't. You called just as I was leaving the theater. I decided that I didn't want to go without you and I rushed down the street to catch up with Carol. We walked home together."

I saw then what Jeff was getting at. Carol knew, too, for she was staring at him, her lips parted slightly and her hands clenched around the brandy glass.

"How many keys are there to this apartment?" Jeff asked.

"Two. I have one and Carol has the other."

"Where are they?"

"Mine's in my purse. I used it tonight when I came in." I looked in my purse just to make sure, and I held the key up in front of Jeff.

"Where's your, Carol?"

She looked at him startled, as if she hadn't been listening and was trying frantically to piece together the bits of conversation that she had overheard.

"Carol," I said, "your key! Where is it?"

"It's . . . it's in my blue purse, I think. Yes, yes, that's where it is."

"Go look," Jeff said.

Her purse was on the table in the vestibule and I brought it in and handed it to her. She began emptying it, slowly at first—a handkerchief, compact, a little change purse. Then the things came out flying—lipsticks, a mirror, cards, cigarettes. But no key. And she raised her eyes, unbelievingly, from the stuff spread out before her. She said, "It . . . it isn't here."

"When did you have it last?"

"I . . . I don't remember."

"You had it Sunday night," I said. "Just as we were leaving for the theater I gave it to you. I picked it up off the mantel and you slipped it in your purse . . . that purse."

Carol nodded. "Yes, that's right."

"And after Sunday night?" Jeff asked.

She closed her eyes in an effort to concentrate. "I can't think, Jeff, I'm so tired. I . . ."

I said slowly, "I used my key Sunday night when we came home. And Monday . . . Monday night at the theater you borrowed mine, Carol!"

Jeff said, "You haven't seen your key since Sunday night then, Carol!"

"I . . . no, I guess I haven't."

"But Sunday night you took it to the theater in that purse?"

"Yes."

"Where was your purse?"

"In our dressing room. On my make-up table."

"All evening?"

"Yes."

Worse Tangle

JEFF sat down and whistled softly. "Everyone at the theater knew, or could have known, that Haila was going to a party and that Carol was coming home . . . alone. Anyone could have sneaked into your dressing room while you were on stage and taken the key. Then he could have got up here before Carol, let himself in and waited for her."

My spine turned to ice. "Then Monday wasn't the first time that Carol was in danger? The man who stole her key and came here . . . came here to . . . "

"I'm afraid so," Jeff said.

Carol's voice was loud and harsh, protesting: "No, Jeff! No! There was no one here when Haila and I got home, I tell you!"

"From that window," Jeff pointed, "he could see you coming down the street. He could see that Haila was with you. And that was plenty of time for him to leave. By the stairs . . . or even by the fire escape."

"No, that isn't it. I don't believe it! Won't you please stop talking about me getting killed? You sit around and figure out ways! It makes me . . . I can't . . ."

She rushed into the bedroom. I started to follow, then stopped, knowing how futile my comfort would seem to her. Jeff was beating a nervous tattoo on the windowpane. When he spoke the excitement in his voice startled me.

"Haila, when we were up at Vincent Parker's today, he said something about seeing Clint Bowers Sunday night, didn't he?"

"I don't remember, Jeff."

"Of course you do! He said they walked up Lexington Avenue together, they . . ."

"Oh, yes! Parker had an idea for the third act. It was after the invitation performance."

"Right! And they separated outside of Zollers. Just down here around the corner. There isn't another Zollers, is there?"

"Not that I know of, Jeff, you don't mean . . . that Clint was the man Jinx saw at our door! He couldn't have mistaken Clint Bowers for you, he's so much heavier and . . ."

"What! Who did Parker say was with Clint?"

"Tommy . . . Tommy Neilson! No, Jeff! It couldn't have been! Tommy wouldn't sneak in like that and . . . oh, Jeff, no! Not Tommy!"

"Grab your coat, Haila!"

"Why? Where are we going?"

"To see Clint Bowers. To find out where he left Tommy. Tommy fits Jinx's description as much as I do. It could've been Tommy!"

But we shouldn't leave Carol alone just now."

"She won't be alone."

He opened the door and Crowley's tall shadow fell across the rectangle of light that spilled out of the living room. I snatched up my coat and followed Jeff past Crowley to the elevator.

It was only a few minutes until Osuga, a Japanese boy I had seen occasionally at the theater, ushered us into the library of Clinton Bowers' penthouse apartment and in his soft lilting voice explained that Mr. Bowers was busy with a young man and would we wait, please.

The whole living room had been designed for comfort. My survey was interrupted by a whistle from Jeff, who had discovered a shelf holding only beautifully bound copies of the plays Bowers had done—and that the list stopped short when Bowers' association with Eve North began.

SLOAN DECLARES SACRIFICE NEEDED

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 20.—(AP)—Alfred P. Sloan, General Motors chairman, believes America has reached the sacrifice stage in the production race with Hitler.

Shortages of labor and materials must be met by sacrifices of priorities, and shortage of goods must be met by measures to control price inflation, he told the Commonwealth club yesterday.

"I believe control of prices is an essential element in this great program in which we are involved," the veteran leader in the automobile industry asserted.

He called for control of the "component parts" of inflation—readjustment of purchasing power by control of wages and taxes.

As to taxes, Sloan recommended reduction of income tax exemptions and taxing wages at the source.

"The wage earner can well afford a tax of two or three per cent. He is getting more out of this situation, which is one from which no one wants to make a profit, than anybody else. His purchasing power has been tremendously enhanced."

WEIRD ESKIMO MURDER STORY TOLD IN COURT

Seven Accused Of Taking Lives Of Nine In Religious Dispute

BELCHER ISLANDS, HUDSON BAY, Canada, Aug. 20.—(AP)—One of the weirdest stories to come out of the frozen north was unfolding today before a white man's court hearing murder charges against seven Eskimos accused of putting nine others to death in a dispute over whether Christ had come to earth again.

Some of the nine died of gunshot wounds, some of beatings, and the rest—four of them children—were sent naked into the wind-whipped snow last winter to perish of cold.

Preliminary testimony was taken yesterday from some of the accused, their relatives and tribesmen.

They spoke through interpreters in a tent which served as the courthouse for the judicial party headed by Justice C. P. Plaxton of the Ontario supreme court—a party which took 13 days for the long trip north.

The story they told was one of long arguments over claims of two tribesmen to divine power, of beliefs that Satan was driven from the tribe by the deaths, and of the burning of religious books deemed no longer needed if Christ walked again among men.

Peter Sala and Charlie Ouyerack, whose claims to divine power were said to have figured in the fierce arguments, were among the accused.

Sala said he believed he was God in thoughts but not in body. Ouyerack said another Eskimo told him he was Jesus Christ and thus he became convinced that he was.

The Eskimos normally are peace-loving. Seldom has a member of any of the tribes been executed for violation of the white man's law. A verdict of guilty makes the death sentence mandatory. However, such a sentence can be commuted by the governor-general on the advice of the department of justice.

One of the first cases taken up here was the death of 15-year-old Sarah Apawkok. Her brother, Alec Apawkok, was charged with clubbing her to death with a rifle carried by a tribeswoman named Akeenik, also accused.

One witness told the court yesterday the girl was killed because she refused to believe Sala was divine. Another testified she was struck because she failed to do her work in the tribe's winter camp.

An Eskimo woman testified the other Eskimos were pleased when Sarah was dead—that they believed Satan had been driven from their camp.

TWO EMPLOYES AT MINE ARE SHOT

HARLAN, Ky., Aug. 20.—(AP)—Two employes of the International Harvester company mine at Benham, Ky., were shot and wounded today when their automobile was fired on near the mine.

The men were identified as Marion Hall and Frank Hill, both of Cumberland, Ky. Neither was seriously hurt. State highway patrolmen were investigating.

At two other Harlan county mines, Black mountain and Lynch, miners failed to report for work today and officials of the company could give no reason. Robert Hodge, United Mine Workers of America official at Harlan, could not be reached for comment.

An official of the Benham mine, who declined use of his name, said the mine was operating about 75 to 80 per cent of capacity. He said that 250 pickets were at the mine gates.

Since April there has been a jurisdictional fight at the Benham mine. The Progressive Miners of America (A. F. L.) won an election there but it has been contested by the U. M. W. A. (C. I. O.)

COTTON CLOTHING IDEAL FOR SOUTH

In outlining the efforts of the cotton producing industry and cotton trades industry to cooperate with the Surplus Marketing administration, United States department of agriculture, to increase our domestic consumption of 100 per cent American cotton products, A. R. Wisenbaker, chairman of the Ouachita parish cotton industry committee, said Wednesday that cotton clothing is more suited to southern climates than any other fabric.

"From a viewpoint of comfort and health there is no fabric which can compete with cotton on southern climates," Mr. Wisenbaker declared. "Cotton fibers are so constructed that they have high absorption qualities, enabling them to absorb perspiration much more rapidly than any other fiber, natural or synthetic. This factor makes cotton more cool and comfortable during the hot summer months."

Another reason for cotton's suitability to southern climates is the fact that it is washable. Cotton fibers, stronger and tougher than steel, can be subjected to countless launderings. Cotton is the only fiber which actually becomes stronger when it is wet.

Washable cottons are a necessity here in the south, Mr. Wisenbaker said.

"Only through washing can every trace of perspiration be removed from a garment," he continued. "And most cottons can be washed without fear of shrinkage or running and fading of dyes."

SOLDIER CARRIES WRONG SUITCASE

A certain hitch-hiking soldier will be very much surprised when he opens his suitcase and finds out it belongs to someone else.

The soldier caught a ride at Ruston with Rev. A. S. J. Neill of Clay who brought him to Monroe and dropped him off on DeSiard street. Rev. Neill went on to Bastrop to visit his daughter there.

Last night Rev. Neill opened the suitcase and found that it contained khaki clothes and some tobacco. The soldier had taken his valise containing a valuable letter addressed to his daughter.

Rev. Neill said he would bring the suitcase to the News-Star—World office today and hoped the soldier would do the same.

JUMPING THROUGH DOOR IS COSTLY TO BOY HERE

Accustomed to jumping through a door frame in a local restaurant, 411 DeSiard street, J. B. Gallion, 18, repeated the act again yesterday afternoon—and was sent to the hospital.

Unknown to young Gallion, a glass panel had been put in the frame. He was treated at St. Francis sanitarium for deep wounds on the right leg and cuts on the back of his hands from broken glass.

CANADIAN PRIME MINISTER WILL SEE CHURCHILL

Admiral A. Bromley of the dominions office, representing the British government.

"Well, Vincent, how are you? I'm glad to see you," were King's first words.

He expressed satisfaction with his trip, saying:

"I dare say I will want to travel by air everywhere I go after this, it has been so delightful."

King said he could not state his plans until he had had an opportunity to discuss a program with Massey.

It was understood, however, that he intended to stay approximately three weeks and in addition to conferences with Prime Minister Churchill and the British war cabinet he expected to make extensive visits to the Canadian armed forces in the United Kingdom.

Canadian Navy Minister Macdonald, who has been here for some time, planned to be in Britain another week, enabling him to have discussions with his chief and to visit naval centers with him.

NINTH MEMBER OF CABINET TO CROSS

OTTAWA, Aug. 20.—(AP)—Prime Minister W. L. MacKenzie King by his bomber flight to Britain became today the ninth dominion cabinet member to cross the sea for a first-hand glimpse of the war zone and consultation with British leaders.

First minister to visit Britain after war broke out was the late Norman Rogers, then defense minister, who was killed in June, 1940, in an airplane crash.

Since then seven ministers traveled to Britain. They were:

Resources Minister Crerar, Air Minister Power, Pensions Minister Mackenzie, Defense Minister Ralston, Agriculture Minister Gardiner, Munitions Minister Howe and Navy Minister Macdonald. Macdonald is still in Britain.

GERMAN RESISTANCE STUBBORN ALSO

While press wires carried stories of stubborn Russian resistance on the eastern front this German-censored radiophoto from Berlin shows a German lieutenant with his wounded arm bandaged, directing his men in an attack on Russian positions somewhere on the eastern front. The suicidal resistance of the Russians may be the reason for this German officer staying with his troops to direct their efforts rather than retire behind the lines for treatment. (NEA Radiophoto)

SLEEP SAVES 3 IN PLANE CRASH

Wittis and Savio Cruz Secco. Cruz Secco was found unconscious, his arms around his dead wife.

The pilot of the plane, Roldao de Barros, died shortly after the rescue workers reached the scene. A Panair spokesman said an early examination of the wrecked plane showed no signs of sabotage.

Professor Frederick S. Dunn of Yale university, who arrived here with Mrs. Jessup and Philip Jessup, Jr., from Asuncion, said Jessup and Davies picked their way through jungle toward the lights of Sao Paulo after fighting free of the wreckage.

"Jessup walked five miles down the wild mountain slope, found a house and led several persons back to the crash," Dunn said. "While they were attempting to drag the bodies from the plane, Jessup, who was severely bruised and dazed, started through the jungle again and finally found the road to Sao Paulo."

of the squadron waited on the flying field for the sound of his motor and never heard it.

With dinner over the squadron leader stood up and said, "Gentlemen, the King."

The men drank to the health of their sovereign. Then they drank a toast to the president of the United States and, looking at a picture of Prime Minister Churchill on the wall, "to the old man."

"This dinner is for Dickie Lee," then said the leader. "I won't get sloppy. He hated that sort of muck. * * * I suppose he was a hero. But more than that he was a gentleman. He laughed a lot and was kind to his friends * * *. What more can you say of a man? Gentleman, I ask you to rise and drink to Dickie Lee."

So, we rose and drank to Dickie Lee.

SOLDIERS SCATTERED BY 400-POUND LION

CAMP LEE, Va., Aug. 20.—(AP)—Soldiers of Camp Lee engaged in an unscheduled maneuver with a 400-pound lion today.

The big cat escaped from her cage, raced through a crowd of soldiers and finally was trapped in a coal bin after giving this army post an exciting few minutes.

The animal had been brought here from Mason City, Ill., by Dr. Manley E. Mathers to perform in a camp circus and was being transferred from her cage to an arena when she made the break. The hundreds of men gathered around watching the unloading scattered quickly to the barracks and watched Lady lope through the quartermaster replacement center streets before she spied the coal bin and dived in.

Dr. Mathers and his son, Corporal Merritt E. Mathers of Camp Lee, quickly pulled the cover over the bin and called on a squad of soldiers to hold it down until a cage was brought up.

BUS SYSTEM IN DETROIT TIED UP BY STRIKE

mated's privilege of checking off union dues.

The government continued to withhold action on the offer of the Federal Shipbuilding and Dry Dock company to turn over its strikebound Kearny, N. J., yard to the navy so that work might be resumed on $493,000,000 worth of defense contracts.

Reliable reports said that President Roosevelt had written John Green, president of the C. I. O. Marine and Shipbuilders' union, and L. H. Korndorff, company president, asking that the 17,000 strikers be returned to work at once.

The union insists that the company accept a recommendation of the national defense mediation board for a maintenance of union membership clause in the working contract. Such a clause would provide that all present or future union members would be required to remain in good union standing as a condition of employment. The company contends that the requirement would mean a closed shop.

Some sources expected Korndorff and Green to confer during the day.

Gimbel's, a New York department store, was the focus of a labor dispute which brought disorders in demonstrations yesterday. The store remained open despite a picket line formed by the United Department Store Employes of New York, C. I. O.

The union demanded a 40-hour, five-day week, a closed shop, arbitration machinery and a 5-cent-an-hour increase for salesmen, clerks and other employes who now receive, the union said, $16 to $22 a week.

A C. I. O. strike at New Haven, Conn., held up production of some timing devices for bombers. The union claimed that the New Haven Clock company had refused to bargain or to consent to an election of a bargaining agent. About 1,300 employes were idle.

Another labor dispute continued at the Leland-Gifford factory at Worcester, Mass., where airplane crankshafts are machined. C. I. O. steelworkers struck there August 11, protesting the discharge of eight men who the union claimed were dropped for union activity. The union tentatively agreed last night to accept a peace formula, but the company withheld immediate action. The union claims 900 men are out; the company says 975 are working.

A one-day strike of A. F. L. construction men at Camp Lockett, Calif., an army cavalry post, ended yesterday when the 800 union men agreed to go back to work while a board of review in Washington considered the dispute. The union asked contractors for a wage increase of 12 1-2 cents an hour, or for defrayment of the $1.50 a day charged for room and board at facilities furnished by the contractors.

Meanwhile the national mediation board asked the United States Gypsum company to send the officers of each of its 17 plants to Washington to negotiate with the C. I. O. United Mine Workers toward settlement of a strike which has been in progress since June 26. The company has rejected a union demand for a master contract covering all 17 plants.

MUCH OF PORT OF HAMBURG IN RUINS

LONDON, Aug. 20.—(AP)—A neutral diplomat said today the important German port of Hamburg which he left a fortnight ago had taken "such a smashing from the R. A. F. that its people were consoling themselves by saying, 'Well, it's not as bad here as it is in Bremen.'"

"From the central railway station 'to town hall,' he asserted, "a street of eight or nine-story buildings—Monckebergstrasse—has been laid in ruins and closed to traffic for days at a time."

The diplomat said no eastbound rail traffic had been able to move out of the station and eastbound terminus facilities had been moved to an old suburban depot which had been closed for 30 years.

PLANES CARRY NAZI TROOPS, RUSSIANS SAY

standing high on a hill over the Volkhov river, is surrounded by swamps and lowlands.

A Red army bulletin also indicated that the Germans were beginning to use air-borne troops in the 60-day-old conflict, reporting that a number of big four-motored Junkers transports loaded with light tanks and men had been shot down.

Coincidentally, British military experts predicted that the Germans would make an unprecedented use of air-borne forces in an attempt to smash their way across the formidable barrier of the Dnieper river, in the southern Ukraine.

Authoritative London quarters said the Germans had avoided the mass use of parachutists, troop-carrying planes and gliders—such as they exploited in the battle of Crete—to await just such an emergency as the Dnieper crossing.

German military dispatches said the left wing of General von Rundstedt's army, estimated at 1,500,000 men, was advancing against stiff resistance toward the great bend of the Dnieper river, site of the big industrial city of Dnieperopetrovsk.

Advices reaching London indicated that Marshal Semeon Budyenny had succeeded in withdrawing a great many of his troops across the river, but that his forces were believed to be weak in guns and depending too much on oid-fashioned horse cavalry.

Hitler's field headquarters declared that Nazi schnelltruppen ("speed troops") were successfully attacking the few remaining bridgeheads on the west bank of the Dnieper still held by the Russians, and it was evident that the grand assault on the new Soviet defense line was about to begin.

German dispatches said that Nazi siege guns were intensifying the attack on Odessa, Russia's big Black sea port, and that increased pressure was also being exerted on Kiev, the Ukraine capital. Nazi aerial observers said Odessa harbor was littered with the burned wreckage of ships.

The Russians, noting bitter all-night fighting along the entire front, conceded that the Germans had advanced to the Gomel sector, midway between Smolensk and Kiev, as Nazi columns lunged eastward beyond the Pinsk (Pripet) marshes in a new salient.

"Our troops fought especially stubbornly in the Novgorod and Gomel directions," the Soviet communique said.

With the German drive to the Novgorod sector, Leningrad faced a three-headed onslaught. From the west, other German columns were striking along the Gulf of Finland from Estonia, capturing Kingisepp, the rail gate to Leningrad, on Monday. From the north, German and Finnish forces were pressing down the Karelian isthmus, some 75 miles from the city.

The Russians declared, however, that their withdrawals were orderly and marked by savage resistance.

In Berlin the possibility of a seaborne Nazi thrust on Batum, Russian oil port at the far eastern end of the Black sea, was envisioned.

Farther to the southeast, British and Russian troops were reported poised on the frontiers of Iran (Persia) for direct action if the government at Teheran failed to answer British and Russian demands for expulsion of 2,000 German tourists and technicians said to have filtered into the country.

Official quarters in London would not confirm British press reports that a 48-hour time limit had been mentioned in the British note. Dispatches from Teheran said Iran had called additional army classes to the colors, bolstering her army to 200,000 men.

British bombers struck again overnight into northern Germany. Some damage was done by German night raiders over British coastal sections.

Canadian Prime Minister W. L. MacKenzie King landed in Britain after a transatlantic flight by bomber for conferences with Prime Minister Churchill and other British leaders.

Relations between Britain and France developed a new strain as Vichy heard that two British warships had steamed into the blockaded port of Jibuti, French Somaliland, after a British dispatch boat shelled a French ship outside the harbor.

The Jibuti radio, source of this report, gave no further details of the action, but declared that the blockade was having a disastrous effect on the entire colony.

In the far east crisis, authoritative London quarters warned Japan that any further move in the south Pacific would be regarded by Britain as "extremely serious."

Australia's prime minister, Robert G. Menzies, told a special session of the Australian house of representatives that Singapore and Malaya must be regarded as a vital outpost of the commonwealth's defense. He charged Japan with being responsible for tension in the far east and said she had the means of easing it.

GENERAL SCOTT VISITS BLITZ UNIT

CAMP POLK, La., Aug. 20.—(AP)—Major-General Charles L. Scott, commanding general of the 1st Armored corps, which comprises the 1st and 2nd Armored divisions, today visited headquarters of the 3rd Armored (bayou blitz) division.

General Scott's visit came while Major-General Alvan C. Gillem, Jr., commanding general of the bayou blitz, was showing Major-General Jacob Devers, chief of the armored force, the Camp Polk area.

Headquarters of the 1st Armored corps are set up near the bayou blitz headquarters. It will act solely as an observers camp until the arrival about September 5 of the 1st Armored division, when it will begin operating tactically.

THE TOGGERY WILL OPEN HERE FRIDAY

The Toggery, men's clothing store located at 211 DeSiard street, will open Friday morning, J. B. Pickens and Mark Ringheim, managers, have announced.

The new firm will handle a line of men's made-to-measure tailoring, hole-proof shirts, neckwear, men's novelties, jackets, slacks, hats, shoes and other men's clothing articles.

Sporting goods will also be included in The Toggery's stock.

FIFTH COLUMNIST?

Unusual among the numerous observers posted in this area during the war games is the wise old bird shown above stationed atop a 40-foot light pole on the First Baptist church corner opposite the police station. Apparently without changing his position facing the station, the big brown owl perched atop the light pole all night Tuesday and still maintained his post Wednesday.

McClellan's luckless peninsula campaign against Richmond.

Mr. Roosevelt read Sandburg's description of what Lincoln said to the women who were seeking encouragement. It ran thus:

"'I have no word of encouragement to give,' was the slow, blunt (Lincoln) reply. 'The military situation is far from bright; and the country knows it as well as I do.'

"The women were silent. They knew it was a heart-to-heart talk, that he was telling them what he could not well tell the country, that he was frankly relieving the burden of an overweighted mind. It was a silence of a moment, but 'deep and painful,' said Mrs. Livermore.

"'The president went on: 'The fact is the people have not yet made up their minds that we are at war with the south. They have not buckled down to the determination to fight this war through; for they have got the idea into their heads that we are going to get out of this fix somehow by strategy! That's the word—strategy! General McClellan thinks he is going to whip the rebels by strategy; and the army has got the same notion. They have no idea that the war is to be carried on and put through by hard, tough fighting, that it will hurt somebody; and no headway is going to be made while this delusion lasts.'"

When President Roosevelt finished, one reporter inquired how he thought the "lead" to the story should be written—the at-a-glance summary.

"President quotes Lincoln and draws parallel," Mr. Roosevelt replied, and gave newsmen permission to quote him directly for emphasis.

WILL GET DRESSY SHOES FOR ARMY

BOSTON, Aug. 20.—(AP)—Keeping abreast of fashion, the United States army for the first time soon will have a low shoe, of a new design, a tan blucher oxford suitable for off-duty wear on the dance floor and in the drawing room.

The quartermaster depot here announced today the distribution of invitations for bids for 1,250,000 pairs of the dressy shoes.

Thus far the army has bought special oxfords in small quantities for fliers. Now all soldiers are to have low-cut shoes.

K. OF C. ASKED TO AID RUSSIA

neither was acceptable to the people of the United States.

"But," he added, "we know that Nazism, with its superior competence and perverted intelligence, its extraordinary energy and missionary zeal, its profound belief in racial superiority and destiny, its fanatical intolerance, and above all its tremendous military power and skill, is by far the greater menace to free nations and free institutions. It is at present the real menace."

The jurist said it was abundantly clear that "under Nazi rule no religion would remain free," and that "any concessions thus far made to religious bodies have been solely for reasons of convenience and opportunism."

Monroe, Louisiana, July 24, 1941.

Honorable Mayor and Commissioners, City of Monroe, Louisiana.

Gentlemen:

We have completed the audit of the books and records of the City of Monroe for the fiscal year ended April 25, 1941, and submit herewith our report which includes the statements indicated in the index and the following comments.

COMMENTS

SCOPE OF AUDIT

The recorded receipts of all departments were checked in detail and were found to have been turned over to the Secretary-Treasurer. We have called your attention to a small irregularity in the Police Department which has been adjusted.

Cash Receipts were traced to the proper bank accounts.

Disbursement vouchers were examined and checked for supporting papers, approvals and distribution.

Warrants were examined for amounts, signatures and endorsements.

Bank accounts were reconciled with statements received from the banks.

Records of the City Tax Collector were checked in detail.

FINANCIAL EXHIBITS

The financial condition of the City of Monroe as of April 25, 1941, is reflected in Exhibit A and supporting Schedules A-1 to A-10, inclusive.

Comparison of assets and liabilities of the current year with those of the previous fiscal year is shown in Exhibit D. The financial position of the City again shows an improvement at the close of the current year.

Reconciliation of funds in Monroe, Louisiana, banks is shown in Schedule A-6. The funds for retirement of bonds, and payment of interest coupons due are analyzed in Schedule A-7.

An analysis of the Bond Tax Fund Accounts and a reconcilement with the respective bank accounts appear in Schedule A-10.

Additions to Capital Assets amounting to $66,623.82 were made from General Fund receipts, as enumerated in Exhibit F.

GENERAL FUND REVENUES AND EXPENSES

General Fund Revenues and Expenses for the current year, segregated to show the operations and maintenance of Public Utilities separate from those of the other departments, appear in Exhibit B. A comparative analysis of these expenses for the current year with those of the fiscal year ended April 26, 1940, is given in Schedule B-1.

The revenues of the Public Utilities for the current year exceeded the expenses by $426,686.33, as compared with $402,422.72 for the previous year, as shown by Exhibit E. The revenues from all departments for the current year exceeded the expenses by $109,986.32 as compared with $106,052.34 for the previous year.

The disposition of the excess of revenues over expenses is reflected in Exhibit F, Application of Funds Statement.

SCHOOL MAINTENANCE FUND

An analysis of the School Maintenance Fund and reconcilement with bank account appear in Exhibit C. The revenues and expenses for the current year are compared with those of the prior year in Schedule C-1.

ACCOUNTS RECEIVABLE

The individual water and light accounts receivable, kept in the Water and Light Office, are in agreement with the general ledger in the office of the Secretary-Treasurer. Accounts considered uncollectible have been charged off. We have not verified the individual accounts with the debtors, but believe that the internal check provided by the accounting system insures accuracy. Continued improvement in the condition of the accounts has occurred during the current year. There are, however, in our opinion, some delinquent accounts that should have been collected.

UNCOLLECTED TAXES

Schedule A-4 gives an analysis of the collections by the Tax Collector during the current year and a schedule of the uncollected taxes by years. Taxes considered uncollectible were charged off.

Allocation and distribution of taxes collected were found to be in accordance with assessments and as provided by ordinance and law.

BONDED INDEBTEDNESS

Bonds amounting to $89,500.00 were retired during the current year, and all bond maturities and interest to April 25, 1941, have been met. Cancelled bonds and interest coupons were examined.

Details of the City's bonded indebteeness and accounting appear in Schedules A-7, A-9 and A-10.

VOUCHERS PAYABLE

Unpaid accounts were checked and the total of the individual items was found to be in agreement with the ledger control account.

DEPRECIATION

No reserve for depreciation is carried on the books for depreciable assets, and no charge has been made to current operations, however, inventory adjustments to care for wear and tear and obsolete equipment such as motor trucks, automobiles, movable machinery, etc., are made annually to General Fund Surplus, thereby adjusting these assets to their present or depreciated value. Repairs are charged currently to appropriate expense accounts.

SURPLUS

Analysis of Capital Surplus and General Fund Surplus for the year ended April 25, 1941, is shown in Schedule A-11.

CERTIFICATE

We CERTIFY that, in our opinion, the exhibits and supporting schedules comprising this report correctly reflect the financial condition of the City of Monroe, Louisiana, as of April 25, 1941, and the operations for the fiscal year ended April 25, 1941.

Respectfully submitted,
COX AND FRAZER,
By H. G. FRAZER, C. P. A.

CHISOX PITCHERS HURL CLUB INTO SECOND PLACE

CLUB BOASTS BEST MAJORS' MOUND STAFF

Lee, Humphries Turn In Double Shutout Against Philadelphia

By Judson Bailey
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

The finest pitching staff in the major leagues this year belongs to the Chicago White Sox.

This has been no secret, but the feat of Lefty Thornton Lee and big Johnny Humphries in pitching a double shutout yesterday against the Philadelphia Athletics served to switch the spotlight in the direction of the Sox.

Obscured by such developments as the fancy pennant fight in the National league, and the collapse of the Cleveland Indians, the White Sox nevertheless have won eight straight games and 17 of their past 20 in spurting from fifth place to second in the American league since August 2.

This was accomplished almost entirely on superb pitching. The Sox still are the weakest-hitting outfit and the next-to-the-worst fielding club in the circuit. They haven't hit a homer in their past 14 contests and have smacked only 38 all season.

But their pitchers have hurled nine shutouts and 22 one-run tilts, and in 82 games the starting pitcher went the full distance.

Lee, recognized as the outstanding lefthander of the year, achieved his 16th victory by holding the Athletics to six singles. He let only one man reach second and hit a double himself to drive home Chicago's first run in a 4 to 0 victory.

Humphries, a 26-year-old righthander acquired from Cleveland last winter in exchange for Clint Brown, allowed only four hits. It was his third starting assignment and his second straight shutout. John Babich opposed him with a five-hit job, but walked four batters, one intentionally, to force across the only run of the game in the third inning.

This lifted the Sox to 16 games behind the New York Yankees, who divided a double header at Detroit and lost their great star, Joe DiMaggio, for perhaps a week with a sprained ankle.

The Tigers broke loose for eight runs in the second inning of the opener and won, 12-3, with Lefty Hal Newhouser pitching five-hit ball. Charley Keller hit his 30th homer while Charley Gehringer led Detroit's 16-hit attack with a homer and a double good for four runs.

New York banged back with a 16-hit bombardment to take the nightcap 8-3. DiMaggio hurt his left ankle tagging second base after hitting a double in the fourth inning. He had not missed an inning till then.

The injury tended to push him out of the American league hitting competition as lanky Ted Williams came up with three home runs during a double header between the Boston Red Sox and St. Louis Browns. Williams' big day, which included a couple of singles, boosted his batting average to .410, gave him a total of 26 round-trippers, one behind DiMaggio, and a total of 89 runs batted in, third highest in his league.

In spite of Williams' show, the best Boston could do was split the twin bill. The Browns took the opener, 3-2, as Dennis Galehouse held his former teammates to six hits, one less than Jack Wilson gave up to St. Louis. John Berardino hit a homer and then singled home the winning run for St. Louis in the ninth. Boston won the nightcap 10-7, with a 19-hit offensive.

Washington whipped Cleveland's stumbling Indians again, 8-6, on Jimmy Bloodworth's two-run homer in the 12th inning, making Cleveland's current record 13 losses in 14 decisions.

Brooklyn barged two full games in front of the National league by battering the Pittsburgh Pirates 9-0 and 6-2, in a double header while the rest of the league was kept idle by rain in the east.

Curt Davis obtained his fourth shutout by holding the Buccaneers to five hits in the opener. His teammates provided him a seven-run lead in the first inning. The second game was a tight hurling duel between Ken Heintzelman and Rookie Tom Drake for seven innings. Playing in a steady drizzle, the teams came up to the eighth in a 1-1 tie. Then when Pittsburgh broke it with a run, the Dodgers retaliated with a five-run outburst punctuated by Pete Reiser's two-run double and Dolph Camilli's 25th homer with two on.

It was Brooklyn's fifth straight triumph and 16th in 20 encounters and the eighth loss in 10 starts for Pittsburgh.

DODGERS DROP BUCCANEERS IN DOUBLE BILL

Flatbush Goes Two Games Ahead Of Cards With Twin Wins

By Judson Bailey

BROOKLYN, Aug. 20.—(AP)—The always surprising Brooklyn Dodgers broke open their powder keg twice Tuesday for two big innings and blasted the Pittsburgh Pirates fore and aft in a double header, 9 to 0 and 6 to 2, to expand their National league lead to two games.

Rain kept all other National league teams out of action.

Brooklyn blew open the first game with seven runs in the first inning and then won the nightcap with a five-run eighth-inning rally climaxed by Dolph Camilli's 25th home run of the season with two on.

Lanky Curt Davis hurled five-hit ball for his fourth shutout of the year in the opening encounter.

Joe Sullivan started on the mound for Pittsburgh and, because injuries have reduced the Pirate pitching staff to seven men, Manager Frank Frisch tried to let him weather the storm. He faced ten men, gave up five hits, two walks and seven runs while getting only two batters out.

Finally Joe Dietz was called in and subdued the Dodgers.

The second game for seven innings was a tight hurling battle between Rookie Tom Drake, just up from Nashville, and Lefty Ken Heintzelman.

Drake allowed only two hits in six stanzas—each a double and each with two outs. Then in the seventh, Frank Gustine hit his second two-bagger, stole third and scored on a wild throw by Harry Lavagetto. In the eighth Arky Vaughan opened with a pinch single and scored on a triple by Bob Elliott.

This excited the Dodgers to drastic action and they batted around against Heintzelman.

SPORTS ROUNDUP

By Hugh S. Fullerton, Jr.
(Pinch-Hitting for Eddie Brietz)

NEW YORK, Aug. 20.—(AP)—Rumor market: What's this we hear about Steve O'Neill, the Tigers' coach, being offered the job of managing the Indians next year? . . . Southern writers say Bitsy Grant is going to retire from the tennis grind if he makes a first-ten ranking this season. . . . Boston's Ted Bishop may be a dark horse in the National Amateur. He's been getting some confidence in a couple of years of playing the big-shots and headed west with the idea that he can putt better than any of them. . . . When Talent Scout won a race Saturday at Saratoga and paid $60.20, Owner Alf Vanderbilt didn't have a cent on him. He was sitting back waiting to see Petrify—which took a licking in the Spinaway. . . . Hank Greenberg, who isn't exactly getting rich on a corporal's $52 per month, has traded in his expensive car for a cheaper one and $200 cash. . . . All this talk about asking for a discharge leads C. M. Gibbs of the Baltimore Sun to comment: "If he wants to sacrifice all that dough just to get back in baseball, that's his business."

HARD LINES

If you think Whit Wyatt had tough luck with that almost no-hitter the other day, listen to this sad tale from the South: J. H. Hilbert had a no-hitter and a 1-0 lead with two out in the seventh and last inning of a sandlot game. . . . Then a fellow named Alec Holmes came along and socked a homer. . . . J. H. pitched four-more near-perfect innings until Holmes bobbed up again in the twelfth and busted up the ball game.

BUSY MAN'S NEWSPAPER

Mrs. Barney Dreyfuss, who's a baseball fan besides being one of the few woman club owners, came along to watch her Pirates play the Dodgers. . . . And she probably wishes she'd stood at home. . . . Sorry to hear that Wade Ison is so sick he can't do North Carolina State's football publicity this fall. . . . The Dodgers are going to put on a fashion show before their game with the Cubs Friday, which is ladies' day, and some of those prejudiced Brooklyn fans are suggesting it might be a better game if the Brooks played the models instead of the Cubs. . . . Ball players say the reason Jim Tobin is winning for the Braves is that he's developed the best knuckleball in the National League. . . . Paul Lukas, the actor, arranged to fly to Boston every morning to play in the national doubles championship and back to Broadway at night to play in "Watch On The Rhine." . . . Illinois has grabbed off Ray Florek, Fenger High fullback, who was rated the best prep school prospect around the Chicago district.

TODAY'S GUEST STAR

Wirt Gammon, Chattanooga Times: "It is not true that the Cleveland club is called the Indians because they are the vanishing Americans."

SERVICE DEPT.

All baseballs hit into the stands at Swayne Field, home of the Toledo Mud Hens, and returned by the fans will be sent to army camps by the club management. . . . Zeke Bonura is doing so well as assistant athletic director at Camp Shelby that they're talking about naming a ball field after him. . . . The football Dodgers have lost 23 players via the draft and three to defense jobs and have seven rookies who may be called up any day. . . . All service men in uniform will be able to buy reserved seats for Penn State's home grid games for half price. . . . The ruling that put Benny McCoy in class 3-A was sent to Benny's local board by General Lewis B. Hershey, acting upon authority of President Roosevelt. . . . As the Senators' No. 1 fan, the president now can hardly refuse to do something for Buddy Lewis.

BADGER STAR QUITS TRACK

Fenske Says Service Extension Settles Matter For Him

LAKE CHARLES, La., Aug. 20.—(AP)—With the same gameness that made him immortal in track history Chuck Fenske has abandoned his fondest hope—a comeback on the cinders with another crack at the world's outdoor mile record.

Extending army service beyond a year cinched the matter for Fenske, former University of Wisconsin ace. Before that he'd planned to try for fresh laurels after his year in the army.

Now he's given up practice runs around army camps by which he tried to keep his speedy legs conditioned.

"My main job now is right here in this man's army and I'm forgetting everything else," said the 25-year-old Fenske, sunburned, putting on weight and recently promoted a corporal.

"My running is all over now, it seems, but I would have liked another fling at it."

Here with the 135th medical regiment, Fenske helps tend hospitalized soldiers engaged in the mammoth Louisiana war maneuvers, sorts slides in the laboratories and serves as sports editor for his regimental paper.

His exciting indoor and outdoor duels with Glenn Cunningham, the barrel-chested Kansan, still have sport followers talking and both share the world indoor record of 4:07.4 though neither could touch the outdoor mark held by Sidney Wooderson of England. Fenske showed them both his heels in the celebrated 1939 Princeton mile.

Army life, as Chuck hoped it would, has cleared up the throat trouble which developed midway in last winter's season when he swept to victory in all the big mile events, largely squaring his series with Cunningham.

"But you just have to take things as they come," laughed the star athlete who developed his underpins and wind as a kid delivering newspapers and tooting on a saxophone. "You might say you have to take them in your stride."

YANKEES LOSE STAR IN GAME WITH BENGALS

DiMaggio Suffers Sprained Ankle As Mates Split With Detroit

DETROIT, Aug. 20.—(AP)—The New York Yankees came to grief Tuesday, not so much by dividing a double header with the Detroit Tigers, as in losing their great batting and fielding star, Joe DiMaggio, with a sprained ankle.

The Tigers scored eight runs in an unrestrained second inning in the first game to win 12 to 3 and then were knocked back into their humble place as the Yanks captured the nightcap 8 to 3.

The victory in the second game, however, was small recompense for the injury to DiMaggio, who turned his left ankle while rounding second after hitting a double in the fourth inning.

No bones were believed broken, but he was taken to Harper hospital for X-rays and will be out of the lineup for several days. Until Tuesday he had played every inning of every game this year.

In the first game Lefty Hal Newhouser kept the Bombers well muffled on five hits. One of them was Charley Keller's 30th home run in the second inning and the other was Phil Rizzuto's single with the bases loaded in the third.

But the big Detroit explosion in the second, which included eight hits and sent Marvin Breuer fleeing, settled the game beyond debate.

In the second game the Yanks retaliated with a 16-hit offensive of their own, including homers by Tom Henrich and Joe Gordon, and Lefty Marius Russo coasted easily to his 12th victory by spacing ten Detroit blows. He allowed no runs till the seventh.

Skidding Tribesmen Find 2-Run Average Not Enough

Bob Feller Figures Pitching As Good As Ever But Can't Win Without Hits

By Ray Blosser

CLEVELAND, Aug. 20.—(AP)—The Cleveland Indians are averaging only two runs a game and have been fading like a pound of soap in the little woman's wash tub. If you know why the Tribe is not hitting, please tell Manager Roger Peckinpaugh. His address is 15705 Oakhill Road, East Cleveland, Ohio.

"We just aren't hitting and that covers the whole thing," says Peckinpaugh.

"Why? I wish I knew. When one fellow starts hitting, the one who has been hitting stops. We get all our home runs with nobody on base. When we get the bases full we don't score."

The Tribe pilot even got around to ordering morning batting practice Monday. The Indians responded by scoring two runs—their exact average for the nine preceding games—and skidded into fourth place. That was their 14th loss in 16 starts.

Even Bob Feller hasn't been winning lately. He has lost four straight and seven of his last eight. Bob would be the last man to tell you that he can't win without runs, but Peck declares without hesitation:

"Before Bob was knocked out at Chicago Sunday we didn't make more than three runs for him in his previous six starts—and most of the time we didn't even get him those three."

Feller's explanation is that the club "isn't hitting at opportune times, as we did earlier in the year and the few errors seem to have all been at crucial times.

"I think I'm pitching as good ball as I was," adds Rapid Robert, who had fond hopes of a 30-game season before getting stuck at the 20-victory mark. "We've had the worst streak of bad luck that any ball club has had since I've been up here."

To make things worse, the Indians this week lost the services of slugging Hal Trosky for the remainder of the season and Shortstop Lou Boudreau may be out as long. Trosky suffered a fractured thumb and Boudreau needs an operation on an ailing side.

Remember when the Tribe had a seven-game lead?

MONROE TAKES OPENING TILT FROM TWINS

White Sox Triumph, 3-1, On Wildness Of Gordan Lieb

TEXARKANA, Aug. 20.—(Special)—The Texarkana Twins outhit the league leading Monroe White Sox here Tuesday night in the first of a four-game series but the wildness of Pitcher Gordon Lieb plus Texarkana errors enabled the invaders to score a 3-to-1 victory and maintain their pace six games out in front of Vicksburg and Hot Springs who are tied for second place.

Texarkana fans were celebrating "Connors' Night," the occasion being prompted by the birth of a daughter to First Baseman and Mrs. Merv Connors at Shreveport a few days ago, and the big first-sacker, despite the fact that he got only one hit, drove in the Twins' lone run in the first inning.

The Twins tackle the Sox in a double header Wednesday night and end the series Thursday night.

Lieb held the invaders to five hits, one of which was a home run by Ernie Potocar in the ninth inning, but he walked four and hit three batters with pitched balls.

"Tex" Reeder, lanky righthander, held the locals to seven hits and walked only one.

Jimmy Waldrop led off with a double for Texarkana in the opening frame and scored on Connors' single and from that point on the locals failed to threaten seriously again.

The Sox tied the score as the result of Lieb's wildness in the second. Joe Dooley led off with a single. Pruitt and Medak flied out. Potocar was hit by a pitched ball. Reeder walked to fill the bases, and a base on balls to Joe Eagar forced Dooley home. Jim Keith fanned to end the inning.

A pair of errors helped the Sox gather in another run in the fourth. Guy Pruitt singled but was forced at second by Pete Medak. Lieb attempted to pick Medak off first and threw wild into right field, allowing Medak

SIMON PURES WILL BATTLE

Ward And Billows, Top Amateurs, Will Renew Links Rivalry

CHICAGO, Aug. 20.—(AP)—Marvin (Bud) Ward of Spokane, Wash., and Ray Billows of Poughkeepsie, N. Y., whose fairways feud has been one of the National Amateur championship's highlights the last two years, will put on another of their golf duels Wednesday in the quarter-finals of the Great Lakes Amateur tournament.

Ward, who won the National Amateur crown in 1939 with a 7 and 5 victory over Billows, won his first two matches in the Great Lakes Tuesday in a manner which indicates he'll be hard to stop when the shooting starts in the 1941 National Amateur at Omaha next Monday.

And Billows, who whipped Ward 4 and 3 in the quarter-finals of the 1940 National, was even more impressive as he qualified to meet Ward Wednesday morning.

The Spokane star had plenty of pressure on him in his opening round match, in which he beat Frank Kovack of Chicago, one up on the 19th hole. In the afternoon Ward settled down to straight par golf and eliminated Johnny Lehman, veteran Chicago star, 5 and 4.

Billows routed F. R. Bowen of Chicago 7 and 6 Tuesday morning, then played sub par golf to take a 5 and 4 win over Earl Stewart of Dallas, holder of the National Intercollegiate championship.

Wilford Wehrle of Chicago, a semi-finalist in the 1940 National Amateur, also needed an extra hole to down Walter Kearns of Milwaukee, one up. In the afternoon he eked out a one up win over Walter Burkemo of Chicago.

John Barnum of Chicago, Mexico amateur title winner for two years and another National Amateur entry, moved ahead with a 2 and 1 win over Bill Chambers of Chicago, then he defeated John Nix, also of Chicago, 7 and 6.

Art Sweet of Chicago upset the tourney medalist, Jack Hoerner of Chicago, 4 and 2, after putting out another Chicagoan, Jack Culp, 3 and 2. Ted Payseur, Northwestern university golf coach, defeated Willard Miller of Elgin, Ill., 8 and 6, and then ousted Ed Kletcke, Chicago city champion, 3 and 2.

Mike Bencriscutto of Racine, Wis., a tourney dark horse, staged the day's biggest upset with a morning 2 and 1 victory over Gus Moreland of Peoria, Ill., former Walker Cup star. In the afternoon the Wisconsin player defeated Bob Babbish of Ft. Sheridan, Ill., 4 and 2.

Frank Stranahan of Toledo, trans-Mississippi champion, defeated Don Armstrong of Aurora, Ill., one up in 20 holes and then took a 3 and 2 win over Art Daly of Waukegan, Ill.

The quarter-final round pairings Wednesday morning (semi-finals in afternoon): Sweet vs. Bencriscutto; Ward vs. Bilows; Wehrle vs. Barnum; Stranahan vs. Payseur.

CURTIS BESTS BLACK DRAGON

Mat Mystery Man Unmasks But Identity Is Not Revealed

The Black Dragon, mystery man of the ring, was unmasked following his defeat here last night by Jack Curtis, the nation's junior light heavyweight wrestling champion, but it didn't do the fans much good as the Dragon escaped without revealing his identity.

Quite a disturbance followed the Dragon's defeat, and the Masked Terror, who had agreed to unmask if defeated, fled from the arena as soon as he was declared beaten and had to be "captured" in the street outside the arena and brought back by ring officials.

He finally submitted to the unmasking proceedings after being threatened by the wrestling commissioners, who were present, with loss of his license to wrestle in Louisiana.

He then unmasked, gave the fans a blurred glimpse of his face, leaped from the arena and immediately disappeared.

Curtis took the Dragon quite by surprise to win the first fall of their battle on the double main event card in eleven minutes with a drop kick and body cover.

The Dragon, resorting to such tactics as choking, eye-gouging and other fouls, whipped the champ down in seven minutes of the second fall and finally won with a full crab hold. He proceeded with his fouling in the third fall and had Curtis in plenty of trouble until Referee "Butch" Martin freed the Mississippian from a choke hold. The Dragon took time out to argue with the referee about the hold and Curtis immediately took him by surprise, felled him with a drop kick and won with a body cover in six minutes.

The other side of the double main saw Promoter Gus Kallio, one time champion middleweight wrestler of the world, come in as a substitute for Rex Mobley, light-heavy king, and whip Les Chapman, Rugged Chicagoan.

Mobely was reported unable to appear because of a bad case of poison ivy, and Kallio took to the arena in his place. Despite the fact that Kallio is in his 50th year and retired from the ring, he managed to conquer Chapman.

Chapman won the first fall in 24 minutes with a hammerlock and upper-arm stomp, but Kallio came back to take the second in ten minutes and the third in nine minutes, winning both falls with an inside toe hold.

The program was put on before a packed house, and Promoter Kallio hardly had standing room left after the customers stopped flocking in for the matches which were among the most exciting here this season.

SIX GOLFERS STANDING IN MARVIN WARD'S WAY

CHICAGO, Ill., Aug. 20.—(AP)—Marvin (Bud) Ward of Spokane, Wash., a straight-speaking young man, believes there are six players who stand between him and the 1941 National Amateur Golf championship, which will go on the block Monday at the Field club in Omaha.

Ward, winner of the 1939 National Amateur crown at North Shore and among the favorites for next week's big simon-pure scrap, is convinced that to win his second amateur crown he'll have to outplay these stars:

Dick Chapman, the defending champion; Harry Todd, of Dallas, Tex.; Johnny Goodman, former National Amateur king from Omaha; Ray Billows, twice a runner-up for the title and a finalist against Ward two years ago; Willie Turnesa, winner of the National Amateur in 1938, and Art Doering of Chicago.

MERIDIAN CLUB SELLS RUSSELL TO MEMPHIS

MERIDIAN, Miss., Aug. 20.—(AP)—Norman Cohen, president of the Meridian Southeastern league baseball team, said Jim Russell, rightfielder, had been sold to Memphis and would report to the Southern association club immediately.

Russell and George Kovach were to report to Memphis at the end of the season but Cohen said it was decided to release Russell immediately. Kovach will remain with Meridian for the season.

Cohen also announced that Johnny Lambert, catcher, was reporting from his home in Memphis.

GOLF (As A Golf Widow Knows It)

KAY ELLINGSEN, who had heard all the golf terms but didn't know what they meant, decided to go out and play the silly game just the way she had heard it. What happened wasn't exactly golf, but Kay seemed to have fun. She had fun, that is, until Harold Beer, pro at the San Francisco Ingleside course, decided to make a "nice approach" and wise her up on the game as it really is played:

In the first game, Denny Galehouse limited Boston to six hits, one of them a homer by Williams. Johnny Berardino hit a home run for the Browns and drove in the winning run with a single in the ninth inning.

CHISOX WIN PAIR

CHICAGO, Aug. 20.—(AP)—The Chicago White Sox strengthened their hold on second place Tuesday by shutting out the Philadelphia Athletics twice, 4 to 0 and 1 to 0.

Thornton Lee and Johnny Humphries were the winning pitchers as the Chicagoans extended their streak to eight in a row and 17 victories in their last 20 decisions.

The A's Johnny Babich, although he held the Sox to five hits in the nightcap, was the victim of his own wildness. After a walk and sacrifice put a Chicago runner on second base in the third inning, Babich intentionally walked Joe Kuhel and then also passed Myril and Taft Wright to force Tom Turner across the plate with the only run of the game.

Lee hung up his 16th victory, against eight defeats, by smothering the A's with six singles in the opener. Only one Philadelphian reached second.

NATS HUMBLE INDIANS

CLEVELAND, Aug. 20.—(AP)—Jimmy Bloodworth belted one of Southpaw Al Milnar's pitches over League Park's short right field wall in the 12th inning Tuesday to give Washington an 8 to 6 triumph over the slump-ridden Cleveland Indians, who have dropped six in a row.

Jeff Heath's three-run circuit clout in the first inning started the Tribe to a 4-0 lead against Kendall Chase. The Senators, however, began to solve Chubby Dean, who was relieved soon after driving home the last two Indian runs in the sixth and tied it by scoring a run off relief Flinger Milnar in both the eighth and ninth innings.

Then in the ninth the Soy added their final tally when Potocar smashed one of Lieb's offerings over the left field fence.

JOE LOUIS, ESTRANGED WIFE ARE RECONCILED

CHICAGO, Aug. 20.—(AP)—Joe Louis and his wife were reunited Tuesday.

The scene of their reconciliation was the office of a master in chancery who had been holding hearings to determine how much alimony the heavyweight champion's estranged wife should receive pending trial of her divorce suit.

The title holder and his spouse, Marva, conferred in a room alone for 45 minutes. Then his managers, Julius Black and Jack Roxborough, joined them. Presently, Black emerged and announced:

"They're back together again. She'll drop her divorce action. They'll start from scratch again."

SANDERS PROTESTS CEILING ON LUMBER

BATON ROUGE, La., Aug. 20.—(AP)—A congressman and a farm organization official announced Tuesday that they had protested against proposed federal price fixing regulations.

Representative J. Y. Sanders, Jr., of Louisiana's Sixth district said he telegraphed Price Administrator Leon Henderson that a proposed ceiling on lumber prices to become effective September 5 might cause "small mill operators in this area to close down and hundreds of men to be laid off work."

Milton C. Tainter, secretary of the Louisiana Farm Bureau federation, said in a circular to farm bureau leaders, "we do not feel that it is fair to place a ceiling on agricultural commodities unless Mr. Henderson takes similar steps to curb increased industrial prices and labor."

He reiterated the federation stand that no maximum prices should be fixed at less than 110 per cent of the present parity rate.

FANS GIVE PIG TO CHARLEY ROOT

Charley Root, 42, oldest active player in the major leagues, holds aloft a pig, one of many gifts fans and team mates presented to him in Chicago when he took the mound for the Chicago Cubs to pitch against Cincinnati. He also received a station wagon bought with the dimes of fans, and a check for $1,600 from the Cubs. Charley went the entire route but gave up 11 hits and the Reds won 3 to 1.

WIVES REMAIN WITH PRO ACES

Coach Says Plan Keeps Married Gridders More Contented

HERSHEY, Pa., Aug. 20.—(AP)—When the Pittsburgh Steelers' professional football team went into training here several weeks ago Coach Bert Bell rolled out the welcome mat for wives of the players. He reported Tuesday the experiment was a success.

"I think that having their wives here has the married men in a much better frame of mind," Bell said. "I would say a much happier and more contented frame of mind. This better mental condition means a better football player, and I'm well satisfied with the results."

So, it seems, are the wives. Enough reported with their husbands to establish two full tables of bridge, plus a hostess. To add to the family atmosphere, two brought along their youngsters.

They were Mrs. Ted Doyle and Mrs. Royal Kahler, wives of two former University of Nebraska tackles. Doyle, who graduated from the Cornhusker institution in 1938, has two children here, Dennis, one year, 11 months, and Patricia, 11 months. Kahler, who ended his Nebraska career in the Rose Bowl last New Year's day against Stanford, has a nine-month-old daughter, Terry Jane.

Are the wives and kiddies any trouble?

"Definitely not," Bell assured. "They never interfere in any way. In my opinion, they are no bother at all. As a matter of fact, when we get to our season's headquarters at Greensburg, I expect to have at least a half dozen more with us."

Besides Mrs. Doyle and Mrs. Kahler, these other wives are attending the camp, which breaks up August 28: Mrs. Jay Arnold, Mrs. Elmer Hackney, Mrs. Merle Osborne, Mrs. Walter Kechefski, Mrs. John Noppenburg, Mrs. Maurice Harper and Mrs. Elmer Kolburg.

UNSOUND REASONING

LEXINGTON, Ky.—(AP)—Police received a complaint that an automobile horn on a local street had been blowing continuously for three hours. Investigating, they found a parked truck—and in it a calf, bawling incessantly.

LUST TO KILL MOST RAMPANT IN BOOM YEARS

Attributed To Fact Crowds Gather When Money To Be Spent

By Duke Moran

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 20.—(AP)—Finding the lust to kill most rampant during boom years, a criminologist concluded today the "murder barometer" is due to rise with business indices.

Dr. Walter A. Lunden, criminology professor at the University of Pittsburgh, based his deductions on a year-long research into 2,500 murders committed in Pittsburgh and surrounding Allegheny county from 1905 to 1940.

"If the next six months of 1941 keep pace, there will be more murders than in 1940," said Dr. Lunden. "It appears that as the business cycle moves up the number of murders tends to increase.

"We found 494 murders were committed in the boom years of 1925-1929—only 53 less than the total for the 10-year depression period from 1930 through 1939."

Dr. Lunden doesn't claim his figures are indicative of a national trend but pointed out that statistics compiled by other crime scientists in other sections of the nation also showed more murders during boom years.

Motives behind crimes ran the gamut from "triangle slayings" to an argument over the Ten Commandments, one of which forbids man to kill, Dr. Lunden reported.

"Petty arguments such as who shall pay for the drinks were a frequent cause of murder," the criminologist found.

He also discovered Saturday was the most frequent "murder day" and the Fourth of July, Labor day and Christmas—family holidays—were big days for passionate killings.

The summer months of July, August and September find murder on the upgrade here, Dr. Lunden determined.

His explanation for these dated "killing periods" is that the setting is provided for a murderous climax "by the human trait of congregating in groups when there is money to be spent, a holiday is at hand or the weather is warm enough for outdoor meetings.

"Man is the killer in 88 per cent of the cases I studied but more women are being killed today than 35 years ago," Dr. Lunden said.

He discovered one outgrowth of the depression was "a marked increase of cases where a husband killed his wife and himself and an increase in murder-suicide pacts, especially during the 1934-35 period."

REVIVAL BEING HELD AT CHURCH OF GOD

Large attendances are reported at the revival now being held nightly at the Church of God, corner of Hart and Oak streets.

The mid-week prayer meeting and Sunday services, held ordinarily at Third and Pine streets, have been postponed during the tent meeting.

Rev. J. A. Causey is in charge of the meetings.

NEW ORLEANS. Aug. 20.—(AP)—Cotton futures advanced $1.75 to $1.95 a bale here after reports that the president might sign the bill to freeze government-owned cotton. Inflation talk also figured in the advance. Closing prices were steady 35 to 39 points net higher.

New York

NEW YORK, Aug. 20.—(AP)—Cotton futures gained more than $2 a bale today on covering operations and a rush of buying orders.

Demand was inspired by renewed talk that the president may approve the cotton freezing bill, coupled with opposition by farm leaders to setting of ceiling prices on agricultural commodities.

Further unwanted rain in the eastern half of the cotton belt and recent reports of insect damage counteracted a more favorable weekly weather report. Offerings of contracts were none too plentiful and consisted mainly of scale up hedging and realizing.

By late afternoon values were up 39 to 41 points, October 16.61, March 16.91, and July 16.91.

Futures closed 36-37 higher.

NEW YORK STOCKS

By Victor Eubank

NEW YORK, Aug. 20.—(AP)—The stock market was given a modest lift today by a mild buying movement which started in the steels and gradually spread to other departments.

At the best levels attained around midday gains ranged from fractions to around a point, closing prices were a bit under the tops in a number of cases.

Dealings continued at a relatively slow pace and totaled around 500,000 shares.

NEW YORK, Aug. 20.—(AP)—Favorable action of the steels helped to launch the stock market on another recovery jaunt today.

Improvement in values became fairly general after some early hesitation with the gains ranging from fractions to around a point. Dealings picked up from a slow start but lagged again near the fourth hour.

It appeared the main cue for the better demand for shares was based on buyers' belief the August decline had discounted a good deal of the bad news and that the market's technical position favored some further comeback.

Bonds remained uneven, while most commodities showed climbing power.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, Aug. 20.—(AP)—Wheat prices pushed upward almost two cents a bushel today to within less than a cent of the four year peaks established earlier in the month.

Limited offerings, except at higher prices, covering of previous short sales and some buying credited to mills accounted for much of the market's strength. Traders said the rise in grains was partly sympathetic with strength of soybeans, lard, cotton and some other commodities.

Wheat closed 1 1-8 to 1 3-4 higher. Sept. $1.13 1-4 to 1-8, Dec. $1.16 5-8 to 3-4; corn 1-2 to 7-8 up, Sept. 77 5-8, Dec. 81 3-8 to 1-4.

THINKS FELONS DO COUNT COST

Penal Superintendent Against Fixed Terms Of Imprisonment

By Ronnie Tayler

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 20.—(AP)—Professional felons often figure carefully what their punishment likely will be, and weigh it against the value of their prospective loot before they go out to commit a crime, Ray L. Huff, general superintendent of penal institutions in the District of Columbia, said before the American Prison association today.

That is one of many reasons why terms of imprisonment should not be fixed rigidly by law, Huff added, in proposing a systematic use of the indeterminate sentence. This would leave the period of confinement at the discretion of representatives of a coordinated correctional service.

Regardless of the nature of the crime, a convict should be paroled as soon as he is ready to take his place in society and the community is ready to accept him, the penologist said.

This may mean actual lifetimes in prison for some, even though their offense may not be great, and it may mean the early release of others whose crime may be serious.

Huff urged that prison and parole officials start looking for reasons for releasing convicts the minute they land in the penitentiaries or reformatories. This course includes a determination of what caused the person to commit the crime, and efforts by penologists to remedy his condition.

But the community must be ready to receive the convict before he can be released, Huff said; if society will not trust him there is no occasion for turning him loose.

The criminal who gambles on his chances has no intention of reforming because he sets out with the idea of making the whole thing a paying proposition even if he has to spend a few years in prison, Huff asserted. And as long as his sentence guarantees release at a definite time, he knows about what to expect.

CLOTHES DELIGHT SHIRLEY TEMPLE

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 20.—(AP)—"Gee, Mommy! Do you think I'll ever be able to design clothes like these?" exclaimed Shirley Temple.

She was looking at her wardrobe for "Kathleen," her first picture after an 18-month vacation. There were 22 changes, designed especially for her. What 12-year-old, screen star or not, wouldn't exclaim.

What caught her eye quickest and held it longest? An adult dress she'll wear in a dream sequence when she fancies herself a musical comedy star.

MANY POISONED

VICHY, France, Aug. 20.—(AP)—Widespread cases of toadstool poisoning were reported today from the German-occupied zone of France, including 20 deaths in the past 48 hours. The use of mushrooms as food has increased greatly throughout France as a result of efforts to supplement rationed foods.

The War Today

By DeWitt MacKenzie

Washington's determined step in arranging to ferry warplanes to the allies in the Mediterranean theater has given rise to speculation as to whether a British offensive against Italy might result from this much needed acquisition of aerial equipment.

We get support for this view in the word from London today that British and Russian troops have been moved to Persia's frontiers to enforce an ultimatum that several thousand alleged German fifth columnists be expelled from the country to prevent their cooperation with the advancing Nazi armies.

However, it's natural that the question about Italy should arise. Such a drive has been expected by the world at large ever since Mussolini unfurled his war banners in what he thought to be a gentle breeze but which proved to be a hurricane. Indeed, there's been a good deal of wonderment as to why the British haven't adopted more energetic measures, especially since Italy is terribly vulnerable and has seemed to many allied experts to be ready for the plucking.

From inquiry in usually well-posted British quarters I understand that the reason Britain has dealt lightly with Italy thus far probably has been more a matter of policy than lack of bombers. Actually it is said London believes Italians as a whole are so fed up with Hitlerism that they would break loose from it if they could.

Yet the British also believe that to encourage a revolt against Hitler by any of the embittered Europeans would merely result in fierce Nazi reprisals against those people. The effect would be to frighten other countries into subservience to the Germans, thus damaging the allied cause.

In other words, while the British are banking heavily on general uprisings among the anti-Hitler populations in due course, the feeling is that the time isn't yet ripe for revolts. This is true not of any one country but of all.

Take France, for instance. There's no question about the existence of a widespread spirit of revolt against Hitler. Even the French Vichy government admits unrest, and the Germans in occupied territory are constantly wrestling with sabotage, as note the offer of a million-franc reward for information leading to the arrest of railway saboteurs.

Conditions in France are such as to encourage the growth of this feeling. You get an idea of what's going forward in a little news dispatch from Vichy yesterday, saying that because of the scarcity of meat the French government has authorized the sale for public consumption of sterilized meat from tubercular animals under certain conditions.

Weeks ago an American observer from France told me people were eating cats and dogs. That isn't quite so horrible as it sounds, since a few folk in France eat these animals even in normal times. Still, it isn't the custom, and the practice is prevalent now because of the food shortage. When people are hungry they are apt to be in dangerous mood, but a revolt in France would merely result in fierce German counter-measures.

France isn't the only country where there is a similar feeling. You find it in Norway, Holland, Belgium, Poland, Czecho-Slovakia, Yugoslavia, Greece—in short wherever a people has been conquered.

The British certainly are doing all they can to foster this anti-Hitler spirit throughout Europe. However, they take the attitude that the time for revolt among the conquered peoples isn't while Hitler is strong. Later, when England is ready to make a great land offensive against Germany, there will come the call for revolt in the occupied countries.

So far as concerns Italy, allied observers insist that Hitler has anywhere from 150,000 to 300,000 troops there to keep the lid on. They say that the Nazi secret police swarm the country—that Hitler rules Italy in everything but name.

All this the Fascists deny in chapter and verse, but the British have their story and cling to it. So there you have the explanation—or at least one explanation—of why the British thus far haven't bombed Italy as they have been bombing Germany.

CHILD EXPIRES AFTER ASSAULT

Believe 8-Year-Old Boy Lived Three Days In Ice Box

READING, Pa., Aug. 20.—(AP)—Sexually assaulted and apparently crammed into a vacant store ice box by a maniac, eight-year-old Billy Krewson died there alone within half a block of home where his mother dreamed of hearing his cries for help.

Chance discovery of the lad's frail overall-clad body in the tiny coffin-like ice compartment yesterday ended a six-day search in which 150 Boy Scouts joined police authorities after Billy vanished on his way to a play lot.

"There is evidence this child was assaulted many times," declared Coroner Paul B. Good on the basis of an autopsy. "Examination shows he was alive when he was placed in the ice box and probably lived three days before he was asphyxiated."

The news left roofer Amos Krewson's wife prostrate but she felt better that the youngest of her five children had been found.

"I used to dream my boy was calling for help," recalled Mrs. Krewson. "I couldn't eat because I kept thinking Billy was hungry, somewhere. That's all over now. I know where my boy is."

Coroner Good's findings sent police on an immediate hunt for a sex degenerate even though they continued questioning neighbor children on the possibility Billy might have climbed into the box during a child's game.

Investigators learned from the victim's playmates that other boys recently were approached by a shabby, unshaven stranger who tried to lure them into a desolate hobo jungle only five blocks from the building where Billy's body was found. A roundup of vagrants got under way.

BLONDE BRIDE KEEPS SOLDIER AWAY TOO LONG

Youth, In Jail, Explains Why He Over-Stayed His Furlough

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Aug. 20.—(AP)—"What would you do if you had a good-looking blonde sitting beside you and she had her arm around your neck?"

With that a young soldier who is charged with stealing an automobile explained in jail today his whirlwind courtship, marriage and honeymoon with his 17-year-old bride whom he'd known less than a week and finally his absence from Camp Shelby, Miss.

E. E. Kuhnel, agent in charge of the F. B. I. office here identified the soldier as Roy Salyards, Jr., 20-year-old enlisted man from Indianapolis, Ind.

Salyards pleaded guilty to the auto theft charge before United States Commissioner Baker at Dyersburg, Tenn., and is being held here in default of $1,000 bond, the F. B. I. agent declared.

Kuhnel said the youth left Camp Shelby July 19 for a 10-day furlough. He quoted Salyards as saying he stole an automobile in Hattiesburg, Miss., and drove it to Dyersburg.

There, Salyards was introduced by friends to his youthful bride-to-be.

"Boy, you ought to see her," he told newspapermen. "I had a picture but the officers wouldn't let me bring it with me."

They were married six days later, Kuhnel said, in Corinth, Miss. After that, came a honeymoon into Indiana, the lapsing of the youth's furlough and the return trip to Dyersburg where Salyards was arrested, the officer declared.

At Dyersburg, the soldier's wife, the former Agnes Marie Jeffries, wouldn't comment except to say that "any statement Roy makes is good enough for me."

MONROE YOUTH IS IN ICELAND

Corporal John LeBlanc Now With American Troops In Reykjavik

Serving with the American marine forces now stationed in Iceland is a Monroe boy, Corporal John A. LeBlanc, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. M. LeBlanc of 507 South Fourth street.

Called into service last December after he had received his discharge from the marines the previous June, Corporal LeBlanc was sent to Reykjavik, Iceland, on a United States battleship when American forces occupied the Atlantic island. American and British troops have been stationed there to ward off any possible Nazi attempt to occupy the country.

In a letter received recently by his parents, the first he had sent in three months, Corporal LeBlanc said the Americans in Iceland were "being treated swell by the English soldiers." What impressed him most about the island was the fact that the sun went down there for only one hour out of every 24.

The 23-year-old Monroe youth spent four years in the marines before he received his discharge last year. During that time he visited many important ports of the world. In 1939 he was sent to Japan and was in China for a while where he was a witness to fighting between the Chinese and Nipponese forces.

Last year he was on an American battleship that was searching the Southern Pacific ocean for Richard Halliburton, lecturer, author and adventurer who was lost while attempting to cross the Pacific in a Chinese junk.

Corporal LeBlanc attended Ouachita Parish High school and Northeast Junior College here. After he was discharged from the marines he was employed as a state trooper at Ferriday.

Business Today

By Paul Gesner And John Beckley

NEW YORK, Aug. 20.—(News-Star Special News Service)—The defense program is putting the versatility of American business management to the acid test.

Big companies and little companies all over the country are being called upon by the war department or forced by material priorities to enter new fields of manufacturing which in many cases are totally different from their peacetime products. Engineers who had been confidently supervising familiar production processes have been tossed into the middle of strange and difficult problems. New production processes, new types of machinery, new production layouts are testing their adaptability and ingenuity.

It is not merely a matter of huge industrial companies which have been called upon to set up special armament plants. Little companies, too, have been wrestling with the same type of problems on a smaller scale, and many more will have to face the same difficult transition in coming months as materials for their peacetime operations become scarce. For many small outfits it will soon be defense work or close up shop.

Some of the products manufacturers are now turning out contrast ludicrously with their normal peacetime output:

Rat trap makers are producing army cots.

Casket makers are turning out bomb bodies and fins.

A lipstick manufacturer is producing bomb and shell fuses.

Vacuum cleaner manufacturers are making gas masks.

Adding machine makers are turning out automatic pistols.

Among other oddities of defense production are machine gun belt links made by hair clipper manufacturers; gun tripod mounts from cream separator manufacturers; machine guns from hosiery machinery makers.

For the most part these items are being produced not in new plants but in the regular plant of the company concerned or some nearby idle factory purchased for the purpose. Some new machinery has been required, but in many cases existing machinery has been adapted to the purpose.

Not all of the above products, however, are as dissimilar as they sound when you get right down to production processes. Some of the companies had planned to make these wartime articles long in advance. Their plants had been studied and test runs of the articles had actually been made before the present crisis as a matter of army preparations for "M-day" (Mobilization day).

The job of defense has been so huge that many big companies have been asked to go completely out of their regular fields to construct and operate factories whose products have little or no relation to their usual output. It has been the theory of the war department that an experienced management team which had produced results, even though in another field, was more likely to succeed in the new venture than some new management group hastily thrown together for the purpose.

MAJOR INTERCEPTS CALL FOR CORPORAL

LAKE CHARLES, La., Aug. 20.—(AP)—The corporal operating the switchboard at the 43rd evacuation hospital was out when the phone rang, and a major answered. A young feminine voice asked if the corporal was in.

"No," answered the major, politely, "he's not."

"He's not out with somebody else, is he?" the girl inquired, worried.

"No, I'm sure he's not," replied the major, as she left her number for the corporal to call.

"Isn't he the cutest thing," the voice said sighingly as an afterthought. "Yes, I'm sure he is," the major agreed.

"By the way," the voice inquired, "who is this talking." "This is Major ————," he replied. "Oh," said the voice weakly.
